THE LINKS OF

STOP!!!

Before you turn another page, read this one. Marlboro High School wants you to understand this yearbook.

Links of MHS is all about adapting to change, accepting diversity, respecting others, and appreciating everyone and everything as important parts of the school.

Think of Marlboro High School as an iron chain. A chain is made up of links, each bonding the rest of the links to the chain. Marlboro High is our school, made up of many people and organizations.

The town of Marlboro, the administration of the school, the faculty, the student body, the clubs, the sports teams, and the musical groups are all links in this chain. The chain begins with every individual, and is bonded together by people's common interests and talents. Only when the groups and activities are linked together is the chain complete. This is MHS.

If it is well made and protected from the damaging effects of neglect, a chain is very strong and nearly unbreakable. MHS has the firm foundation of a successful past, and it is overseen by some remarkable people. However, it has been struggling through a lot of change. These changes could have destroyed any other school, but Marlboro High has not been neglected. There are people who care enough about the school that they will not let it "rust" away.

Although MHS is a totally different place than it was even just four years ago, it is still Marlboro High School and most of the same links that were there then are still here now. As for the missing links, we will adapt, and new links have been and will continue to be wrought to take their places, and we will accept them so that the chain will remain unbroken. This is the message Links of MHS has been created to tell.

So we present to you:
Marlboro High
'94 - '95!

Chained Together

What links Marlboro High together? The students' participation in and support for different clubs, sports, and activities is an important part of student life. No matter what time of year it is, or what the activity, MHS is fully involved.

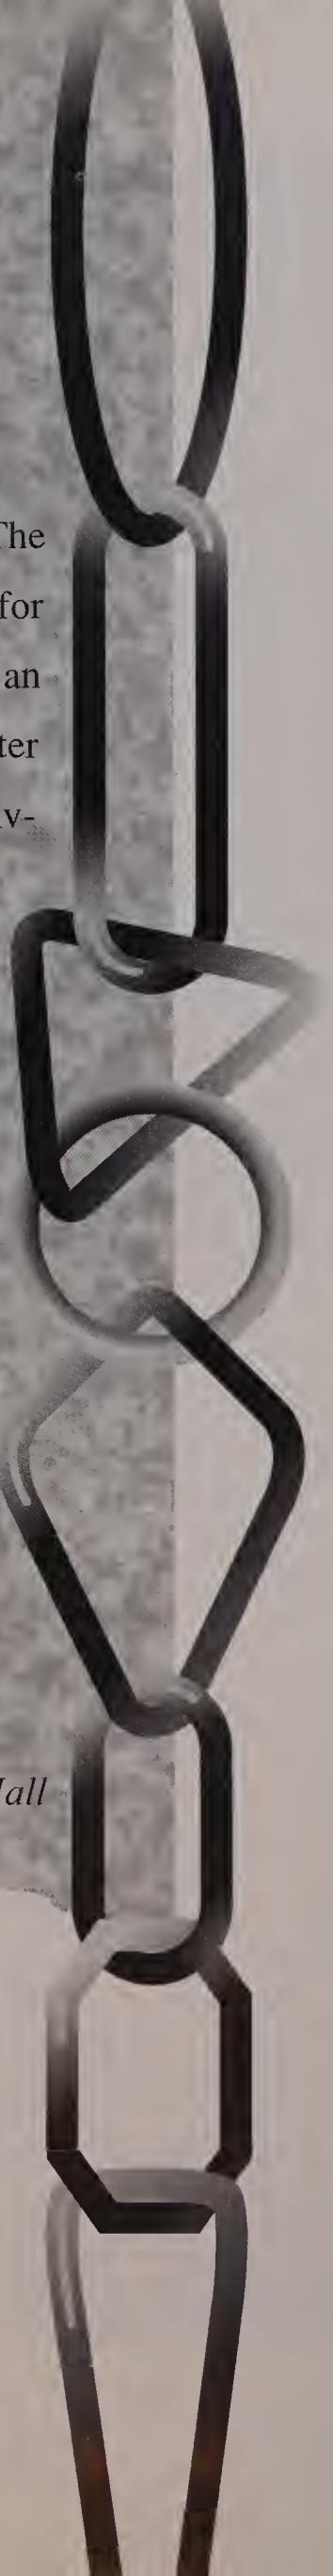

The foyer could be regarded as the center of our student life here at MHS. We "hang" at the rail, where we not only talk with friends, but also check out the posters that display the current events of Marlboro High School.

We are all involved in our own individual areas, but we all come together as links in the chain of MHS.

JUNIOR PROM

1 9 9 4

Pretty! Linda Hayes and Wendy Kline were two of the many gorgeous girls on the dance floor.

Prom Court: Paul Johnston, Jeff Sturges, Ryan Jacques, Jeff Mahoney, Rachel Donahue, Linda Hayes, Kate Barry, Seb Dallis, Dawn Kennison, Christine Kelley.

On a dismal May 8th of last year the juniors could be found running around frantically in preparation for the Prom. After early dismissal at eleven o'clock the girls could be found at various hair salons and the boys picking up their tuxes for the big event. Some people congregated at friends' houses to quickly get their pictures taken before their limo was ready to drive off.

Parents and other students gathered at the Best Western Royal Plaza Hotel to watch the stretch limos and exotic cars pull up so the couples could be acknowledged before they entered the prom. With the music blaring and the lights dimmed, people opted to get their pictures taken first so they had plenty of time for dancing and eating. After busting a move or two, it was time to eat from the buffet-style dinner.

Once we had our fill and relaxed, Mr. Rigney (Class Advisor) got on the microphone and demanded the attention from the audience. The king, queen, and court were about to be announced. Everyone waited in anticipation to find out who were going to be the honored couples. The announcement began with the names of the participants of the court: Dawn Kennison and Ryan Jacques, Linda Hayes and Paul Johnson, Christine Kelly and Jeff Mahoney, Rachel Donahue and Jeff Sturges. When asked what it felt like to be a chosen member of the court, Rachel Donahue said, "I was extremely surprised Flash! Smile! Flash! Flash! This crew of Rick Cincotta & Amari Parker, Keith Vellante & Beth Brady, Tim Bauks & Aimee Gauthier and Dave Maier & Laura Brodeur pose for parents' cameras at Aimee's house before returning to their limo. We had to smile and pose for soooooo much that night!

Get down! Tim Bauks shakes his bootie to the "chicken" dance.

Taking a breather. Jeff Nichols, Stephanie Bryan, Wendy Kline and her date, Jim Cromier, Kate Yurkus, Kristen Hartnett and Paul Johnston all sit out for a song to relax at their table and munch on the food.

Stretch! Even the dreariness of the rain could not hide the glitz of the many stretch limos like this one that brought Amari Parker and Rick Cincotta to the prom.

and I was honored to be a part of the court because I felt I was representing the people in my class, and they deserve it!"

Who would be this years King and Queen? Everyone was silent with fingers crossed. The names were shouted throughout the ballroom: Mr. Seb Dallis and Miss Kate Barry! Everyone congratulated and assured them they were the ones. The court, King and Queen danced to "Into the Mystic" (by Van Morrison). Halfway through the song, everyone joined in.

The night was a complete success; there was plenty of eating, talking, dancing, and fun to be had by all.

When asked if they enjoyed the prom, Senior Jeff Sturges said, "It was the time of my life; everybody was enjoying themselves; it was just fantastic!" and Senior Erin McCurley said, "It was so much fun because it was a good time to have fun with my friends."

There is no doubt about it, the Prom title, "Over the Hills and Far Away," linked us together as a class. It was a place to be together to make memories that will be with us for a lifetime.

A field of spirit coming home

Bursting with excitement, we begin the day dressing in our class colors. The day is full of street hockey, volleyball, wacky and apache relays along with so many more activities and games. During all the fun and running around, we listened to music, grabbed a bite to eat since all the different clubs and classes were selling various food and drinks. The day was competitive and enjoyable for everyone.

At the end of the day, everyone filed into the field house for the event the Seniors had all been waiting for, the Senior Skit and the announcement of the Homecoming King and Queen and their court. Tim Lyons rocked the gym with his guitar playing the Star Spangled Banner. Entertainment just kept coming after that, the Brady Brunch, along with KISS came to show their spirit. Making her grand entrance by skating her way through the field house was Nancy Kerrigan with Tonya Harding chasing after her as always. The Vanilla Ice Dancers, "Grease" and the new MHS cheerleaders all came back alive for the Homecoming Rally. To bring the skit to a close the seniors started to sing "We Don't Need No Education" and had to have Ben Cutone, dressed as Mr. Morley, come quiet them down. Senior class advisor Mrs. Bethke and House master Mr. Kamataris announced the Homecoming Court and the King, Jeffrey Sturgess, and Queen, Carole Dutchka.

- by Amy Hall

Just powdering her nose. Senior Helena Guerra dives into a plate of flour in search of the stick of gum which, once chewed and blown into a bubble in record time, will make her a WINNER!

Dream Team. Members Ryan Jacques, Carole & Christen Dutchka, John Lehane and Jeff Cotton battle for points on the court.

Hhhnnngg! You can see junior Jim Valerio groaning as he uses all his might to win.

SQUIRT. Senior Rob Cummings volunteers to "use his head" in a crazy field day game.

Together. Dave Maier, Keith Vallante, Sean Corcoran, Keith Biddy, Laura Brodeur and Cory Mulvey teamed up.

Bugle boy. Mr. Beradino raises his trumpet to blast out a call at lunchtime.

SPAM! Members of the winning Senior team, Charlie's Phat Spanburgers, were Joe Collins, Jeff Sturges and Tim Lyons.

There she is... Carole Dutchka gets crowned 1994 Homecoming Queen by Mr. Clancy during halftime of the Fitchburg vs. Marlboro Homecoming game.

Homecoming Court. Amari Parker, Joe Collins, Christen Dutchka, Seb Dallis, Queen Carole Dutchka, King Jeff Sturges, Liz Benway, Chris Barber (standing in for Ben Cutone), Kate Barry and Matt Hassapes (standing in for Jason Sullivan).

Role reversals! Joe Roy adjusts his heart-shaped glasses as he prepares to dance with Joe Buccarelli to "I Will Survive."

Role reversal #2! Jeff Sturges, Harry Coffin and Rob Cummings perform with the new MHS cheering squad.

Rock on! Greg Stein, Pat Orlando and Jeremiah McKinnley listen to Mrs. Bethke before they do their musical impersonations.

An average day...

Where are you headed? Senior Stephan Dew requests a pass from Mrs. Cole and she shuffles through her papers to find a pen.

It is 6:55 A.M. and your alarm clock got set for 6:00 P.M. by mistake! You have to be to school in a half an hour. You take a quick shower and run out the door with about 200 different bags. One for books, for gym clothes, and all your athletic equipment. You finally get to school about 5 minutes late and get the worst parking spot in the whole lot — at least 2 miles away from the nearest unlocked entrance. You walk up the three flights of stairs to your headmaster's (house) to get a late pass! You breathe a sigh of relief as you head to your A-period class. You drudge through the morning schedule until lunch—finally some peace and some time to sit and chat with friends! You almost fall asleep in your F period class but finally wake up to hear the bell ring! Psyche—Only 1 more class to go!!

After school, you head to one of the various after school activities, whether it be Science Club or practice for a sport. You rush home to watch your soaps and attempt your homework. You get so caught up in General Hospital that you forget to do your homework! It is almost 6:00 and time to head to either Yearbook or Student Council, but you are happy because your day is almost over! While at the school you decide to catch the last of the Basketball game and don't get home until at least 9:30! You spend another couple hours on the phone and then (maybe) decide to do your homework! Then you remember that you have a huge Biology test and stay up the whole night studying. You finally get to bed around 2:00 A.M, getting almost no sleep; just to wake up and live just another average day at MHS.

- by Shilpa Phadke

Lemme just jot that down! Senior Jamiee Leroux is a model of organization as she puts her homework assignments into her daily planner. Seniors especially can FILL daily planners like these with all their deadlines and activities. Life gets crazy and you don't want to forget anything!

Just a couple more hours! Senior Shin-Yi Lai looks for a book in her locker as she contemplates what she needs to do before the end of the school day.

Driving...

Dressed for success! Jeff Sturges' SPAM mobile steals the show in the student parking lot at MHS on Field Day. Jeff was the chauffeur of all his "Charlie's Phat Spamburgers" teammates that day.

One of the most important years of our life is the year we turn sixteen. Anyone who is anyone can't wait for their 16th birthday because it's time to prepare for freedom - that's right, your LICENSE!

Senior Jason Sullivan says he remembers, "Watching those boring movies and waiting for the 15 minute break so I could go to Delaney's for a quick bite to eat." And Senior Liz O'Leary remembers, "My friend Shelly Ferris because we used to make fun of people from other towns, and we used to count down the minutes to break so we could get outside to get FRESH AIR."

When asked what her closest brush with death was, Betty, one of the driving instructors, rolled her eyes and said, "When a very nervous girl panicked and drove up on the sidewalk. She was so nervous she wouldn't remove her foot from the gas pedal. Right before we were going to crash into a tree, I physically reached over and removed her leg, and then I slammed on the brake on my side of the car."

After Drivers Ed, it is time for the icing on the cake - going to the registry and (hopefully) receiving that plastic card with your mug shot on it. This final test will decide whether you'll be taking the bus or driving to school - having your mom drive you on a date or driving yourself.

Will I be able to negotiate the 3-point turn, parallel park or secure the car on a hill? If we were to miss one of these it could mean complete disaster just ask Senior Stephanie Bryant who failed three times because the registry cop said she was too over confident the first time, she failed at hand signals on the second time and she couldn't find the registry on the third time.

Senior Julie Tremmel failed because she couldn't complete her 3-point turn. She says, "Due to the fact I had my mother's Volvo Station Wagon and an enormous snow drift on either side of the road, the 3-point turn was difficult to execute. After the failed attempt I was promptly instructed to return to the Registry and park. Once there the closed minded trooper proceeded to explain my failure. He basically told me that because he had the same car he knew a three point turn was possible in the space allotted and he proceeded to hand me the paper with a big red capital F."

Best of luck in the future!

-by Brian Stupik

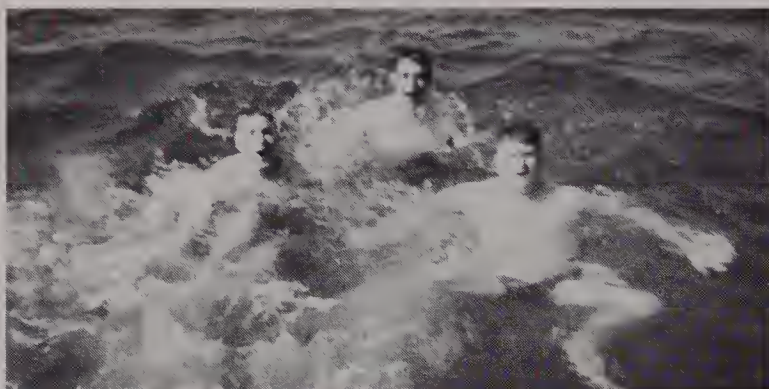

Alright Marlboro, outta my way! Senior Steph Bryan looks confident behind the wheel as she prepares to zoom out of the high school parking lot.

Yoo-hoo! Senior Kate Barry's smile is almost as cute as her white convertible.

MHS Travels Around the World...

Cool shades. Teacher, Ms. Giorgi, poses before the French Coast.

A French villa. MHS students get a feel for the French way of life.

Love Boat. Marlboro High students sample the Greek culture with Latin teacher Ned Banta.

Bienvenido! A group of MHS students are welcomed into Spain.

When do we leave? Here as sophomores, Amari Parker, Shilpa Phadke, Sarah Domings and Janice Robischaud pose in their hotel room as they prepare to leave for a day of sightseeing in Colonial Williamsburg, VA.

Olympic Gold. In front of Barcelona's Olympic Stadium are tourists from Marlboro High School.

Cruisin'! Shilpa Padke, Christen Dutchka and Meghan Jordan feel the sea breeze while on a cruise of the Greek islands.

Imagine leaving Marlboro, traveling halfway across the globe, and spending a whole week exploring a fascinating foreign country. For many M.H.S. students this dream has become a reality. Under the guidance of M.H.S. teachers, students have had the opportunity to travel to such far off places as Greece, Spain, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, and France in the past years. Students often consider their trip to be one of the best experiences of their high school life. It is a chance to be away from your family and life in Marlboro and spend a week with your friends in a different world. Students must master jamming everything they need for one week into one suitcase, learn how to live with the same roommates for a week, and adjust to a different time zone that some never catch up with. When Kate Yurkus was asked if she considered taking her trip to Spain a good experience she replied, "Yes, because I learned so much about the country and myself. I also learned that twenty-four hours of sleep for eight days is not good!"

Students return from their travels with many memories that to reminisce about. Whether it is waltzing in Vienna in front of hundreds of people to a twenty piece orchestra or seeing Wayne's World II in French, students often look back and wish that they could be there again. Many people had funny stories to tell from their trip. The students who traveled to France all said that the funniest event on their vacation was when Jamie Raeke pushed Mr. Goldschmidt into a fountain in Nice. Kristen Hartnett thought that the funniest thing that happened on her trip to Spain was "When we got pushed into the freezing pool!" Students also had some special memories from the airport and on the long plane rides which ranged in times from six hours to ten hours. When Ben Cutone was asked what was the funniest thing that happened at the airport he replied, "When Christen Dutchka was commanded to stop taking pictures in the Rome airport by guards with machine guns." Many students had trouble adjusting to the culture of another country. Whether it was dogs allowed in restaurants, running for your life when you crossed the street, or women who don't shave their legs, students had some trouble adapting to life in another country. K.F.C. in Barcelona and McDonald's in Athens were often the savior for many who could not survive on the country's food. Students had many bad memories from attempting to eat octopus, rabbit, and processed liver sausage. The sights and life of another country gave students an unforgettable experience. M.H.S. students have seen the Louvre in Paris, been awed by the size of the Parthenon, visited the Olympic Stadium in Barcelona, and traveled to Salzburg which Tim Lyons describes as "walking around in a postcard." The beautiful Greek islands and the splendid island of Mallorca in Spain bring back anecdotes that will be recalled again and again. When Mr. Goldschmidt was asked why he enjoys bringing students to other countries, he answered,

"I loved to watch them grow and become more worldly and independent." Mrs. Pascarelli commented that her best memory of the trip to Spain was, "Watching my students in the Prado Museum, seeing the paintings we had studied for the first time." These teachers plan for months, organizing passports, itineraries, and payments. I think Christen Dutchka summed up the experience of taking a trip best when she said, "It was the most incredible experience I've ever had!"

Work day! Seniors Jeff Sturges, Amy Hall and Rob Cummings take a break from raking to find out from Mrs. Ludgate what their next job will be to beautify Marlboro High.

Think positive! Signs like this one were hung up all over the MHS foyer by the Peer Leaders to promote positive attitudes in the student body.

Lunch break! The school provide subs and soda for all the diligent workers who showed up for this fall work day.

So what are some of your concerns for MHS? Well some of us at MHS had some worries and decided to take action by providing school wide projects to give a more positive name MHS.

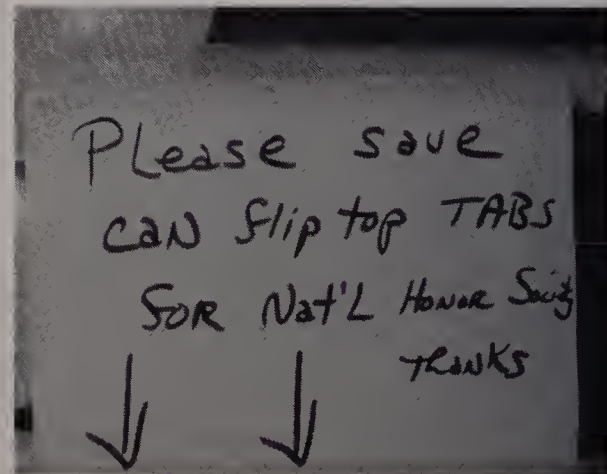

BPA sponsored a school clean up during the fall to help beautify the school. The students raked, pulled weeds, spread mulch and picked up any trash that had been left around.

Student Council had the annual blood drive during the month of December. The Red Cross spent the day in the dance room to offer any student over the age of 17 the chance to give blood.

"Panthers for Peace," also known as Words Not Weapons, was initiated recently to help stop the violence within the school and the community. About 25 students came together several times to open their minds to ideas about stopping the violence.

Smoking Cessation was run by the Peer Leaders to help kids learn the dangers smoking. The classes are for the kids and run by the kids who want to help others.

A pound of can tabs... is enough to help pay for a chemotherapy treatment for a child. This was NHS' service project.

Student

Concerns

It's A Chain Reaction!!!

At MHS, when it's time for a dance, there is a sense of fun in the air. On those Fridays, everyone is buzzing, "Are you going tonight?" "Yeah, it's gonna be awesome!" Everyone gets excited.

Dances are held in the open three-story foyer. This provides lots of room and plenty of air circulation for "dancing the night away." Once students begin to fill the space and the lights get dim, people begin to move to the tunes offered by the DJ. Whether one's preferences are to slow, romantic ballads for swaying with a honey, the upbeat dance tunes of the 90's, classical rock, or rap, MHS dances usually cover the music spectrum sufficiently.

LATIN CLUB

High school students who take Latin and show an interest in Latin have the chance to take part in Latin Club. Latin Club usually meets once a month. They have nights of fun watching "Latin-type" movies and enjoying pizza. The students plan an annual trip for April Vacation and this year the trip is to Ireland/England.

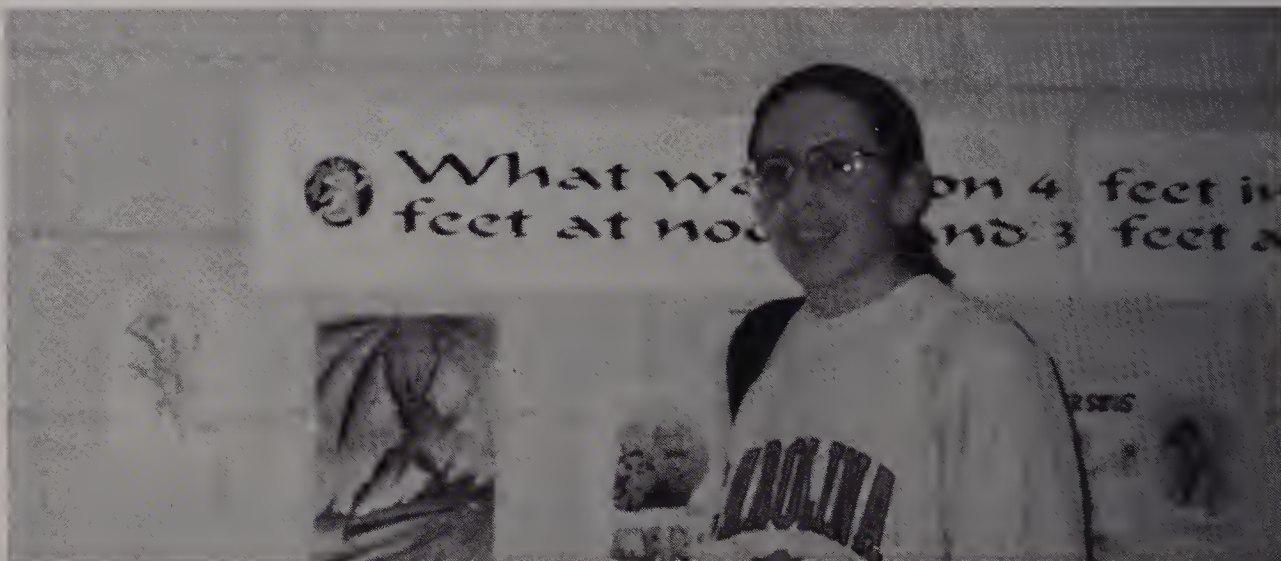

SPANISH CLUB

Under the direction of advisor Mrs. Pascarelli, the Spanish Club holds monthly luncheons and culture days. The club is open to all students, regardless of whether or not they take a foreign language. The club holds fund-raisers, decorates the bulletin board in the foreign language hallway, and is in charge of the International Buffet at the end of the year.

Dead Language. Senior Keith Biddy leaves Latin Club to go study more important things like his lunch.

Look! Senior Jason Farrah poses next to his art work displayed in Mrs. Gruelich's room.

DRAMA

The Drama club puts on several plays a year. The first of which is the Dessert Theater, where the members put on three mini plays. This years plays are: "Hold Your Onions," "Mirrors," and "French Toast." They also put on the Christmas play in December and another in the Spring, which is the biggest play of the year. In order to raise money for the cost of sets and props for the plays, the Drama club participates in many fundraisers, such as the selling of the class t-shirts on field day. The members of Drama work hard to make their plays a success.

Tune it, Kenny! Senior Ken Marchessault obviously enjoys playing his saxophone for the band.

Drummer boys. Seniors Mark Huffam, Steve Montague and Junior Joe Giglio set the rhythm for the marching band.

Happy tunes! Seniors Danielle Unger and Tina DeMarco smile in between bars of their clarinet music.

BAND

The MHS band meets every day as a class. Together they practice various pieces of music for any up coming events. Every year they have three concerts. In addition to concerts the band plays at MHS rallies and at other school - related and community functions. The band also competes locally against other high school bands. They compete in the MICA Fest, which is a regional competition. Then at the end of the year the band takes their annual trip to compete nationally. This year Toronto is their destination. Good luck everyone!!

Members of the National Honor Society meet once a month at mandatory meetings. During a special ceremony at the end of their Sophomore year members are inducted. Membership is given to those students who have the qualities of leadership, service, and character. Members are required to perform two hours of community service a year. This year, under the guidance of advisor Mr. Marusa, N.H.S. will participate in the Evening of Giving and other service projects. They will also have a Christmas party and possibly put on a dance this year.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council meets every Monday night. Representatives from each class come together to try to do positive things for the school and our community. They do activities such as The 8th grade/Junior Buddy Breakfast, teacher appreciation, dances and 2 blood drives. They raise money to go to regional and state conferences and for scholarships for the graduating members.

All smiles! Senior Helena Guerra shows off the smile that has made her so well-liked here at MHS.

ESL/FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Can you imagine walking into Chemistry class and hearing "Wasser ist der flussige einheit von schnee," or attending history class and hearing "Japon invaded China y empieza una guerra en el oceano pacifico." How about going to Literature class and learning "Henrik Ibsen blah blah blah."

What is this, you might ask? Well if you were a foreign exchange student, you would hear a strange language every day; in your classes, with your new friends, in the home where you are staying. It takes a brave soul to study in a foreign country for a year of high school. Just ask Helena Guerra or Lasse Nenonen.

In Panama, Helena lives in a small town with her five brothers and one sister. She has been taking English for five years. She likes America very much and will miss Marlboro High School when she returns to Panama. Her favorite things about Massachusetts are the movies, Boston, and school. Helena was very excited about seeing snow for the first time, and going to Disney World in the spring.

Being a foreign exchange student is one thing, but what about the students who have moved here permanently from another country, especially if they do not speak English. For them, we have the English as a Second Language program. Every state in the union has such a program to help newly arrived students adjust to and cross the language barrier.

Here at MHS, our ESL program has students from Brazil, Puerto Rico, Columbia, Peru, China, India, Vietnam, Mexico, and Guatamala. These students pick up conversational english very quickly, however they cannot easily listen in class and take notes at the same time. The ESL teachers help these students with their work. One former ESL student commented, "It's strange, when you don't speak english. You go to homeroom, but you don't understand the announcements... Mrs. Glackmeyer is really helpful."

SADD

Students Against Drunk Drivers, is a club full of caring, concerned students who educate students about the dangers of drinking and driving. SADD gets involved in various projects at Marlboro High and in the community. They support M.A.D.D.(Mothers Against Drunk Driving) and the Saving Lives Program. They hold raffles, help out with the annual Holiday Red Ribbon campaign, participate in "White Day," make favors/reminders for tables at the semi-formal and Proms, have speakers come in, go to conferences, and have get-togethers with other S.A.D.D chapters.

BPA

The members of the BPA enjoy competitions. They compete throughout the year and are notorious for being tough to beat. They are also the prime motivation for the Fall and Winter Clean-ups.

Future bank president? Business master, Senior John LeBreton goes through some accounting work.

LIFE SKILLS

Each day high school students volunteer their time during their studies to help teach the kids the basic necessities needed to survive in the real world. They play games to learn things such as how to count money or how to tell time. When you work with these students you are not only teaching them but you are learning how to open your mind to other personalities and lifestyles.

It's sixth grade - time to get rid of all those ugly pants that don't quite reach your ankles. Throw away the white turtlenecks with the little red hearts. Yup guys, you can trash mom's favorite little sailor suit, and girls your Shirley Temple days are over! It's time to express how cool you really are. So what do you do???? You look around and buy what everyone else is wearing.

It all started when someone decided to see how many different pairs of different colored socks they could wear with one outfit. You remember girls, your shirt was green and white, your pants were black, so the only logical thing was to wear green socks over the white socks and black socks over the green and white socks. Around the same time, girls were pulling their pants up over their calf as a fashion statement. And guys, we'll never forget the Velcro sneakers or the funky ugly colored Velcro pants. Not to mention you guys really out did yourselves with the Jams.

Well that was sixth grade. In the years to come, anything with a brand name such as Esprit, Vuarnet, or Champion was acceptable. "No name, No fame" was the motto. We no longer did anything weird with our pants. We merely folded one side over and then rolled them up twice. And, we eliminated socks entirely.

Our favorite accessories were swatch watches and bracelets made out of string. Yes folks, string.

In high school, we no longer wore all name brands or spent forty to sixty dollars on a shirt because WE HAD NO $$$$$$!!! Mom and Dad decided that if we were old enough to pick out our own clothes, we were old enough to pay for them.

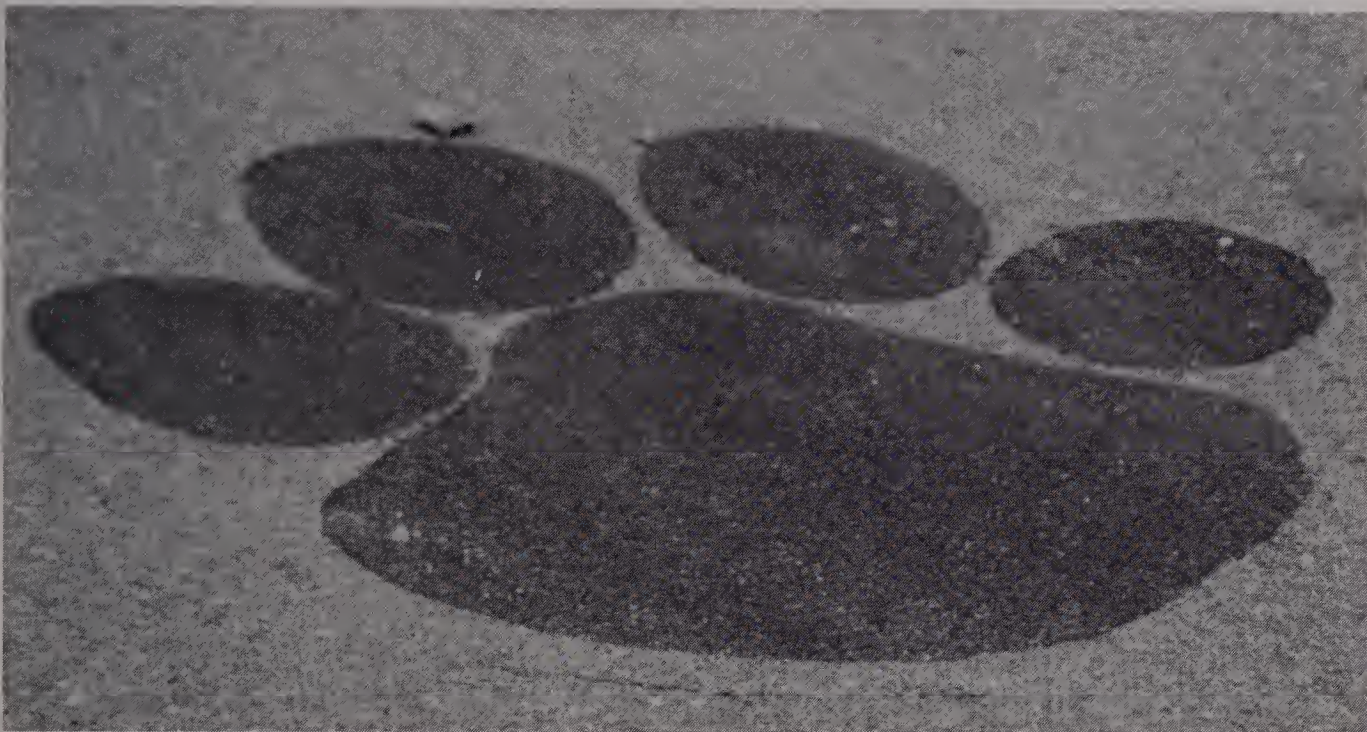

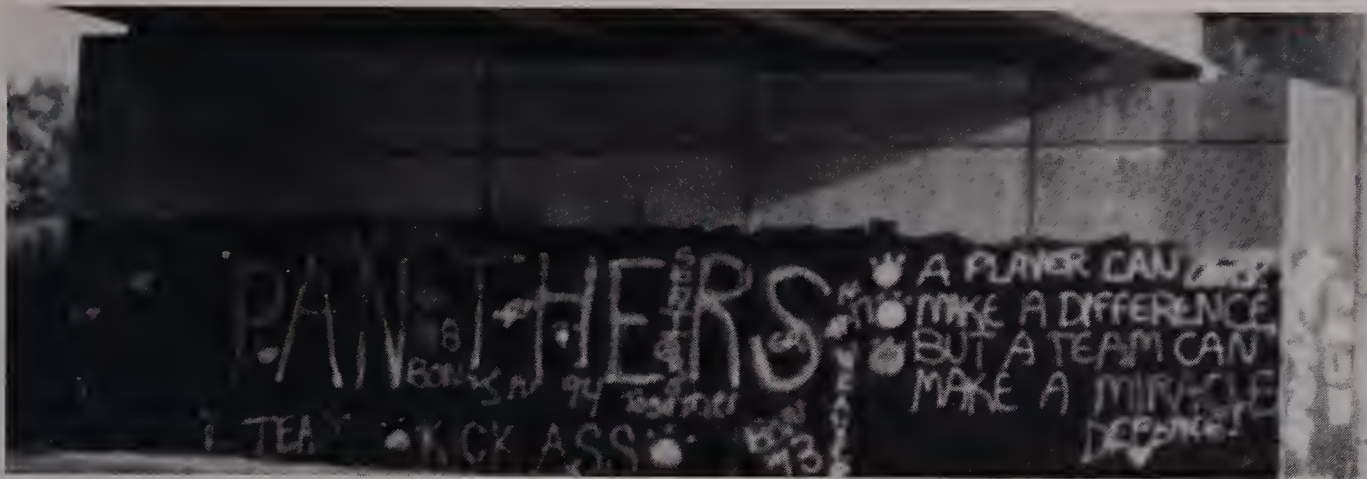

Now I'm not saying that during our stay at MHS that our clothes were cheap and ugly. We wore some pretty nice stuff. We no longer looked like clones. Some people wore the same styles, but a lot of people wore what they thought was stylish. Some wore baby-doll dresses, others wore ripped jeans and a flannel - Tiva sandals or Dock Martins - tie-dye tee-shirts or coed naked tee-shirts.

Styler

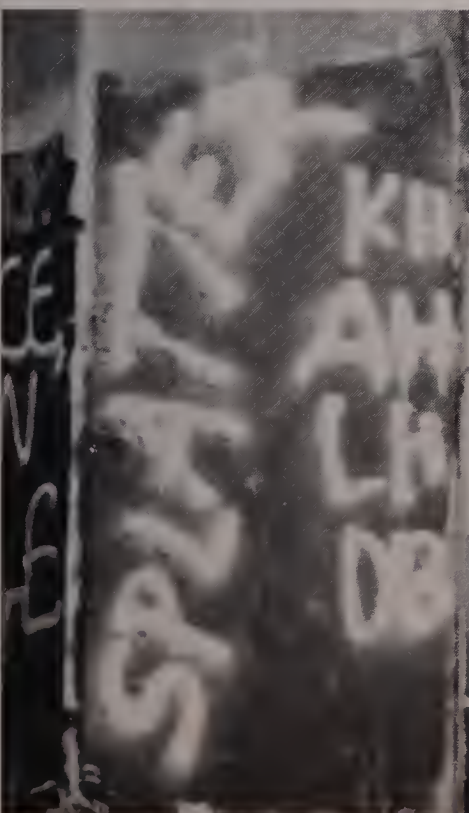

You know, we may not remember these crazy fashions 20 or 30 years from now, but what's important is the crazy people wearing them.

Radical! Mint! Cool! Seniors Cory Mulvey, Shilpa Phadke, Julie Tremmel and Jaimie Bell sport examples of our favorite styles back in the eighties. You look lovely, ladies! Remember swatch watches, scrunched and layered socks, jean jackets, bandanas, hair clips and charm necklaces? Awesome!

TRADITIONS

For many years at Marlboro High students have taken part in traditions. School spirit has always been a part of Marlboro High, and that's why many of the traditions began. Mr. Rigney has a way of getting the spirit rising to its fullest at the rallies when the super ball drops. The cheerleaders also know how to get the student body psyched by announcing the Thanksgiving day game every year on the well known "rock." To prepare for a victorious season the girls soccer team has a Chinese feast and gathers the equipment necessary for a night of adventure to begin painting what is known as "the bridge."

Seniors have many traditions of their own to keep alive. All seniors know the feeling of late nights and late passes from Mrs. Cole due to cramming for tests and deadlines. That may seem bad, but it is worthwhile when the traditional Senior Skip day comes along.

For many underclassmen it may seem as though you are not part of these traditions. But without you who would carry them on? Being involved at MHS is a tradition in itself! So keep the PANTHER spirit, pride and most of all - the traditions alive!!

We've Hooked The Links To A Poll...

After doing a survey of a diverse group of MHS students (including ALL grades), we found some interesting things to be true. Sometimes people are so caught up in their extra curricular activities and schoolwork, they take for granted their everyday routines and preferences. We passed out one-hundred surveys and calculated carefully the results of each question. Some of the "guinea pigs" were more cooperative than others, however, it was a fun activity that sort of links the whole school together! Below is a compilation of just a few of the interesting tidbits that we've uncovered.

55% of students prefer to step to the right side of their bed when they wake up as opposed to the 45% who opt for the left.

It was a close call, however, 49% of students enter their daily shower on the side with the faucet as compared to the 51% that step in on the other end of the tub.

While bathing 32% of students begin their wash by scrubbing their hair, 20% start with their face, 18% prefer their arms, and 30% start with some other body part...

Where hair is concerned 41% of the people surveyed, part their hair to the right. 38% went with a center part (or none at all), and the remaining 21% opted for the left.

79% of students wear their watch on their left hand. 21% prefer the right.

At lunch one is sure to find that 75% of students have smooth peanut butter in their sandwiches, whereas the other 25% like chunky.

69% like their morning cup of orange juice to be without pulp, and the other 31% like the little floaters.

57% of MHS puts their right leg into a pair of pants or shorts first while the other 43% do their left.

63% of students doodle while on the telephone. The other 37% apparently do nothing.

When at a movie theater one can find that 48% prefer the back, 33% enjoy the middle, and the remaining 19% like the front.

92% of MHS students have never used the hot mustard sauce you get at a Chinese food restaurant. The other (brave) 8% have dared to try it at least once.

In conclusion, when students were asked if they enjoyed the survey the response (OF COURSE) was unanimously YES!!

How to eat an oreo?! 61% of students like the frosting of an Oreo as opposed to the other 39% who like the cookie best.

Brusha, brusha, brusha! 59% of MHS wet their toothbrush before applying toothpaste, 41% use water afterwards.

How's it hanging? In the battle over toilet paper, 57% of students prefer it to hang over the roll. 43% are happy with it going under.

Do they really taste different? The rank from most to least favorite color of m&m's is as follows: Green, Red, Yellow, Dark Brown, Orange and Light Brown.

Team bonding! Juniors Nicole Kattany, Christie Clement, Brian LaCroix, Jaclyn Cooney and Mike Lopes stand ready for some street hockey action at Field Day.

Team Bonding

When the school day ends, you won't have any trouble determining the athletes. Whether they are running off to the training room, team rooms, or various athletic fields, everyone has a place to be.

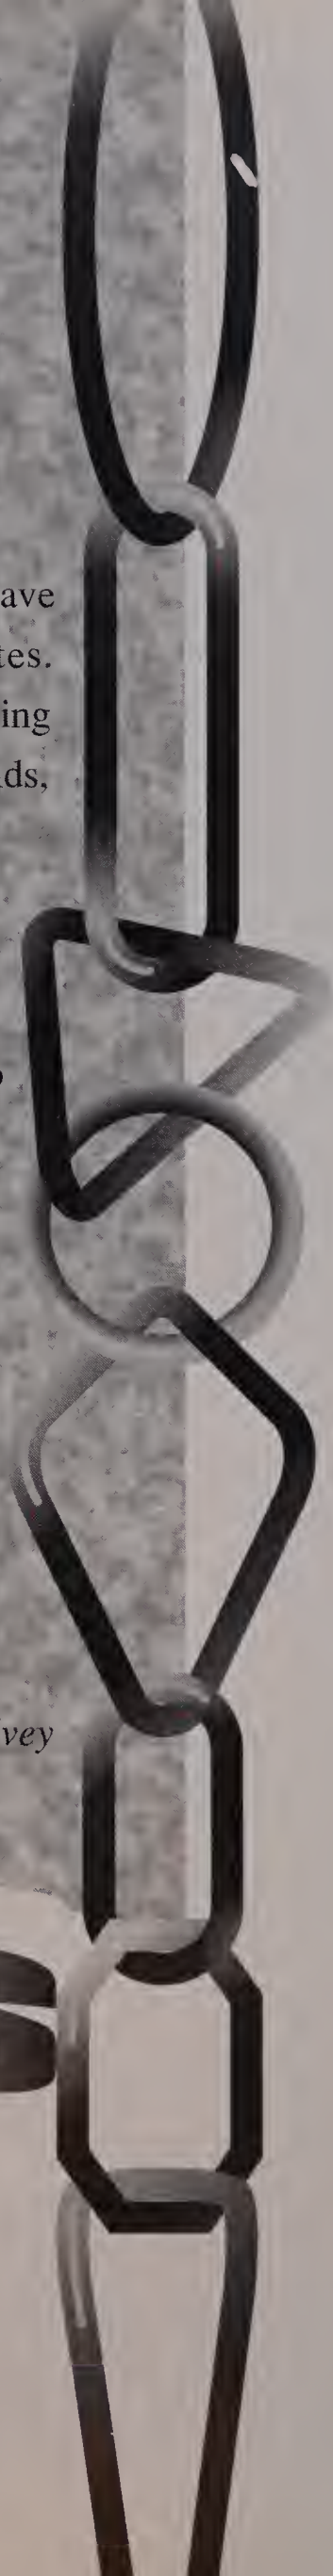

Sports are a major part of MHS. They teach us dedication and determination. Athletes put a lot of time and effort into their sports, and for many students the school day doesn't end until five or six o'clock.

Our teams are our links to spirit, strength, and victory. Legendary links come from sports teams, and these will help keep the MHS chain together forever.

The MHS girls' soccer team had a memorable season. It all started back in the summer with the MHS tradition of eating Chinese food and painting the bridge! What a mission it was this year. As always, perseverance carried us through, and we succeeded despite facing many obstacles. Thank goodness for Walmart, chocolate, and most importantly Oops (Leave it to Hartnett, Thanks Bon!) Christen, did you ever find Am's screwdriver?

Practices were better than ever because of all the competitions going on. 1 v 1, 2 v 2, juggling contests, and also team competitions took place. We took great care in naming our teams too. The winning team each day was almost always the one the best name. If I remember correctly, it was the Hicker team that received the greatest marks for the season although many members tried to hide them because they didn't want to seem too cocky.

All teams go through their ups and downs. We had a few taboos like broken thumbs (Oh, SAMMY!), Grateful Dead concerts (YOU KNOW WHO!), and refs (all of them!). I'm not too sure if this is good or bad but the Fitchburg team was able to get their one and only goal of the season against us. (Good job, Kate!)

There were tons of ups, however. Our record was 18-2-1, and we were League Champions! Pasta dinners were always something to look forward to. There was so much delicious food to chow down. The bus rides were never dull especially with the radio blaring our favorite tunes: "Only the Good Die Young," "Shook Me All Nite Long," PAT, QUEEN, AEROSMITH and GREASE- ones we can NEVER forget and that will always be so special because we know that: "WE'LL ALWAYS BE TOGETHER" !!!!

This one's mine, honey! Christen Dutchka stretches to strike the ball before her opponent even has a chance.

Pull it up! Sophomore wonder-keeper, Isis Dallis, searches the field for a perfect outlet pass.

You got it, Emily! Sophomore Emily Carbone shoves her way into the air to make one of her trademark headers. Emily was never afraid to use her head if a ball was coming towards her.

SAMMY! Sophomore Samantha Cramer shows off her ball control. Classmate Kristen Boches runs alongside to give Sam the square pass.

A Tiki-Tiki-Tiki! The Marlborough High School Girls' Varsity Soccer cheer is carried through the years by enthusiastic teams like this one. These girls bond together this way before every game.

After losing eight seniors, many people were willing to write off the 1994 season as a rebuilding one. Considering the fact that the team only had four seniors, and started only two, the team's 10-7-2 record was very respectable. Many eyes were opened in the community when the team stormed off to a 7-1-1 record through the first half of the season. During that period the team had an impressive streak of seven games without a loss - the only loss coming to eventual state semi-finalist St. John's. The second half of the season, although containing a more difficult schedule, was somewhat disappointing. Most of the losses were very encouraging however, with four of them coming in one goal deficits.

We had a big tie with rival Algonquin which ended the regular season with a 1-1 score. Our 4-2 loss to Shrewsbury in district game was hard fought.

We have a solid nucleus of players returning, including nine starters with plenty of varsity experience, for play next year.

Let 'er fly! Junior Brian Ryan prepares to clear the ball up the field.

Wall! Tim Whitney and Justin Biliancieri move to set up a defensive wall as the other team gets ready to take a free kick.

Take it away, Mike! Sophomore Mike Hayes readies himself to start the attack from the sweeper position.

Drive! Junior Scott Medeiros follows through, using his head, as he carries the ball towards the opponents' net. Scott's speed and determination leave this St. John's player looking quite frustrated.

Mark up! Junior Kevin Clancy and Sophomore Mike Hayes receive valuable defensive advice from their senior co-captain, Mark Mischenko.

If we could put the whole season into one word, I think the JV team would say, "FUN!!!" (We laughed so much it wasn't even funny!) I know that many of us will miss Coach Rogers a lot next year. I know we'll all miss the good times we had, too. At the beginning of the season, we had a hard time feeling unified, but by the end of that fall we could not have been more a team. I would say to all members of the 1994 JV team, Remember that you're doing this for fun, and remember to keep laughing! Don't forget all those stupid games Coach make us play, and never be afraid to look for more inside of yourself; go on a VISION QUEST!!!

Well, we weren't that good this year, but everyone improved considerably as the season progressed, and we definitely had a lot of fun. We made new friends and got a lot out of having former MHS superstar and All-American Colleen Milliken as our coach.

Unfortunately, injuries started early in the season and continued to hurt us throughout the fall. Nonetheless, one of our greatest moments came later on when we tied Wachusett 1 - 1 after having lost to them 0 - 7 earlier in the season. Being on this team was a great learning experience and we all look forward to developing our soccer skills more next year.

This year was a year to remember! Leading this team on offense was 8th grader and surprise player, Rob McBurney who put out a phenomenal effort. Coach Peter Johnson had his infamous speeches like "Guys, I know we lost 9 to 1, but you played a great game!" and "Their team is like a vacuum cleaner, they suck!" In a twist of events, our keeper was knocking mud off the bottom of his cleats which prompted the ref to give him a yellow card. This somewhat offended him and words were exchanged which called for his ejection from the game. At the end of the season there was some turmoil on the team when a player quit and then asked to be let back on. The team showed some unity and accepted him back. Finally, winning the last game put the season to rest.

BOYS SOCCER

No, they did not win every game, but this year's freshman boys' soccer team was a talented bunch of kids who knew how to have fun. They did well, winning a good number of their games, and most importantly, improving a great deal. The boys' ball handling and passing skills especially got better by the end of the fall.

The highlight of the season was the victory over St. John's. Everyone was "totally pumped" and the Panthers' enthusiasm resulted in a 2-0 victory over their rivals. Joel St. Julien and Mike Merrill did the honors; Joey scoring in the first half as Mike followed in the second half with a beautiful shot of his own. Good job on a great season, guys!

Our field hockey team this year had 10 returning seniors and was determined to have a good season. After numerous summer league games and camps, we felt that we were ready to take on the season. We began with a rather slow start but continued to push ourselves. The high point of the season was a 1-0 win over #1 seated Wachusett. Unfortunately, this was not enough to capture post-season games. We were only 1 point short of districts!!

Overall, though, we had a good season and a great time. Not one of our buses caught ablaze this year!!! Hopefully, we as a team, will continue to shoot for the moon and look forward to an excellent season next year.

-by Shilpa Phadke & Kate Barry

Go Meg! Senior Captain Meghan Jordan races to the ball in hopes of getting there first.

I'm ready! Junior goalie Colleen Lynch easily deflects a shot on net.

What? Senior Jaimie Bell looks confused as to what kids on the sideline have to say to her.

Any time now! Junior Amy Clark waits impatiently for the ball.

Pass it on! Junior Kaitlyn Enright gets ready to cross the ball across the field.

Nicole Blanchard - '95

"We only missed districts by a few points... again, but we're lucky that our bus didn't blow up this year."

Erica Carey - '95

"I enjoyed playing field hockey with my teammates. We worked together during the season as a team. Although we didn't make it to districts, the team had a lot of skill and potential."

Karen Zaleski - '96

We, the seniors of MHS, graduate with the memories of laughter, tears, dreams and accomplishments from all the seasons come and gone. We graduate with the remembrance of the new, young faces at the beginning of every season that were eager to practice with the desire to show their best. We graduate with one regret...that we can't relive our memories of past seasons.

We graduate into a world that has no refs, no whistles, and no sidelines. In the world we enter, there are no limitations. We will all share the common game...to succeed, which ends when the final whistle blows and tears are seen in the eyes of the audience. We leave this gym with memories of the games it hosted. Some may return, yet others will only reminisce.

We came and conquered with unity, spirit, and friendship. We heard cheers and saw hands slap before the first serve. Now, as we graduate, we hear good-byes and see hands wave as we walk down our separate paths. We graduate with hope that we left a part of us to the younger generations. We graduate with the hope we supplied role models to those searching for what they wanted to become.

We took medals and trophies, but most of all, we took a piece of each other. A comment, a smile, a "hello" in the halls has impacted us in some way and hopefully we, in turn, passed it onto others.

As the crowds make their final applause, remember them, for when the silence returns, we must put what they taught us to work and cheer ourselves on through our victories and trials that will come before us in life. Friendships are what has carried us through the past four years. We must use the old friendships as building blocks for our future success.

YEEEEAH!!! Senior captain Marissa Brown bumps the ball up into the air. Seeing Marissa with this huge smile on her face, lets you know how much she loves this sport.

Bring it in! The team bonds together before they take their position on the court for game time.

Jessie Pappalia - '95

The 1994 Football season was a series of peaks and valleys beginning with a tough loss to nearby Algonquin and ending with an exciting victory over rival Hudson.

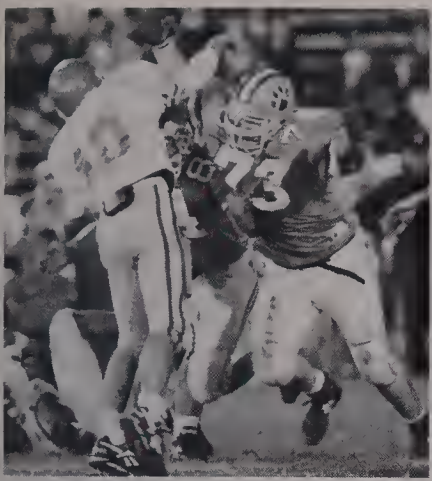

Prior to the season the team had high expectations of what was to come. However, after developing a pattern of alternate wins and losses throughout the season, the team finished with a 5 - 5 record. Although this seems like a mediocre record to some, many feel that the season was a success. Considering the team had little depth and was haunted by injuries throughout the season, we fared pretty well.

So in a nutshell, the season was a success. The bond between players and coaches was mixed with enough fun, making all the hard work worth while. That is what sports is all about.

Sack 'em! #73 Junior Chris Christo goes in for the kill as the opposing quarterback attempts this pass.

With longing in his eyes... Senior Ryan Jacques, out with a serious knee injury, watches the game from the sideline.

Lemme at 'em! Senior Jeff Cotton listens as the referee makes the call, but he can't wait for the action to start up again.

On the bench? No, Senior captain J.J. Donohue is not on the sideline because he has not been playing well. J.J. was a key figure on the team. Here he's fixing his chinstrap before he reenters the game.

Grunting and groaning! You can just feel the hits as Seniors #66 Ben Cutone and #40 Larry Moulton throw themselves into the play.

The 1994 JV Field Hockey season was a mix of hard work and laughter. Double sessions in August can be very hot and extremely tiring, but all-in-all it's worth it. Who can forget the time three of us tripped over each other in goal and just lay in a pile laughing our heads off. The other team just stared at us like we were completely mental. Another time, Sarah Orlando took a dive across the field face first, and got called for a foul on someone she wasn't near. Our team mascot was Lindsay. Even when Beth couldn't play any more, she would come back and give us pep talks. We may not have won every game, but we had a lot of fun times.

The so-called "Freshman" Field Hockey team was not just a freshman team this year. The coach decided to use it as a team for all the girls who had never played field hockey before, whether they were freshmen or juniors. The team ran a lot to get in shape and experienced marked improvement. They only won one game, but it was a great victory which the girls celebrated by doing cartwheels down the field. The season was a lot of fun, despite the fact that the team did not win that much, and hopefully all will return to move up to junior varsity or varsity teams next year.

The JV Football season was a bit unusual this year. The team only played four games because there were not enough players to warrant a whole season. The team was thus called a "sub-varsity" team, and it consisted of freshmen players and the third or fourth string varsity players who were not getting a lot of playing time. The team won all four of its games, but the highlight of the short season was against Hudson. This match-up occurred on the Saturday before Thanksgiving. Marlboro destroyed Hudson 49-6. Ed Souza played unbelievably, scoring three touchdowns. The season, despite being cut short, was a great learning experience for everyone.

This year the JV volleyball team had a great season, losing only once. The freshmen team also got off to a great start, and improved with every game. The successful season was due to the high spirit of the team, and to the coaching efforts of Tom Lambert (JV) and Rich Rigney (Freshmen).

The only loss of the JV team was to the powerful North Quincy. We won the first game, but lost the other two by only a few points. It was a painful loss, but Coach Lambert was proud of us for an awesome season.

From the decorated volleyballs, to Sheri's broken wrist, Julie's grunt, Coach Lambert's 100th win, tether ball and Jen's funky pool table, we have great memories. "It's a great great day hey hey hey," right Jen? Yeah yeah yeah, Lorraine! It's none of your business, Sarah. One day, Mo and I are going to coach a volleyball team, right Mo? We're on fire! Hey, Dana, always remember that Forrest Gump says, "Don't be no big *#@, Pete." (Please, take no offense, Mr. Lepore) Julie says, "If you want to destroy my sweater..." Nikki Halper said, "Our team wasn't focused only on winning. All we had was fun along the way!"

If one team represented the spirit of this school, it was Cross-Country. We were not the best team, but the effort and self-discipline displayed was an inspiration. It's easy to go into a game and try hard and know that you are going to win. A team that goes in knowing it's going to lose, but tries its best anyway has the true spirit of competition and sports. Sergeant Buckwalter rooted us on, Mr. Reenie gave us apples, Pedro lived in a brown house, and Taco Bell after meets. Good luck track stars. Remember that winning isn't everything, it's not what you remember later on.

- by Greg Stein

The 1994 fall season for the Marlborough Girls' Cross-Country team brought new faces, attitudes, and abilities. Along with this new combination of people came some wonderful friendships and many exciting memories.

Coach Pat Kiley began training his new team during the end of summer and continued on to create a physically strong and well-spirited group of athletes. Former Cross-Country runners quickly adapted to Coach Kiley's new strategies for running and challenging workouts. Circuits, horse drills, and curple kicks will live within each and every member of the 1994 team. Perhaps some of us, (M.D. and A.H.) should pick up some tips on nutrition. We never ate Taco Bell, Dunkin Donuts, or nachos from Wal Mart before running. Pilling, next time you want "practice," please let someone know so the entire city doesn't have to be in search of you.

Let us never forget one of our most interesting wins. First, the bus drove past the school into New Hampshire while headed for North Middlesex. When we finally arrived, we found out that Coach was told to go to the wrong school. All of this was just foreshadowing a wrong turn taken by someone on the course. Nevertheless, nobody gave up and with some great kicks towards the finish line, Marlborough prevailed!

It was a very good season for the team; a lot was learned and accomplished. The bus rides to and from away meets are something we will never forget. The SURVIVAL OF THE FASTEST will conquer all...STAY ON YOUR TOES, because it's 99% MENTAL and 1% PHYSICAL!

Many people think that cheerleading is all fun and games, but in reality, cheerleading takes a lot a dedication and hard work. During the weekends, it is all worth while, though.

Before every football game, we all get together and go over someone's house where we have our pre-game dinner, or pre-game breakfast when the games are on Saturday.

The greatest event of all is Thanksgiving Eve. This is when we go over the football players' houses and decorate their bedrooms. From their houses, we go to one cheerleader's house and sleep over. This year we all went to Laura Ercolani's. We wake up very early in the morning to go and "claim the rock." We have beaten the Hudson cheerleaders 3 years in a row.

We put a lot of time into what we do. Usually during every vacation when everyone is sound asleep in bed, we are at the cold, vacant High School practicing.

It definitely pays off! Last year we placed 2nd at a Milford tournament, and 3rd at Chicopee. Most of our tournaments are held far away, like in Chicopee or David Prouty. We do, however, appreciate the support from our fans who come to see us perform.

This year's season was full of peaks and valleys, big wins and heartbreaking losses. With a new coach, it took some time for everyone to get to know each other, but once we were on track, there weren't many teams who wanted to play us. Our sweetest victory was over powerhouse Fitchburg early in the season in the Field House. It had been eight long and frustrating years since the MHS boys' varsity had beaten Fitchburg. I believe it had also been a long time since there was enough noise in our gym to practically blow the roof off as we managed to win that one point thriller. Also early on in the season, we pretty much got smoked by North Middlesex in their dreaded gymnasium. The second time around, however, we came out with fire in our eyes and revenge on our mind, we avenged our early season loss with a convincing fifteen point margin of victory. Fitchburg and North Middlesex went on to finish first and second in the final league standings, but neither were able to leave our gym with a victory.

Late in the season, with two games remaining on our schedule, we had to win both to make the playoffs. We lost the first game, a heartbreaker down to the final possession. That didn't stop us from giving it everything we had in our final game and going out winners. For nine seniors, it was the last season of high school basketball...it was a memorable one.

This year the Girls' Varsity Basketball team had a great season. Looking at our record, one would not think it was an extremely successful one because of some tough losses, but there were also some incredible wins. I don't think that any of us will forget our home game against Westboro. A great effort from the team throughout regulation and two overtimes rewarded us with an awesome win. I think that it was those two ugly three point shots that kept us alive. (Who was it that shot those? Must have been the name.) There was also a big win against Fitchburg at our home court, but I think that for this team, the season went a little beyond lay-ups, jumpshots and ugly three's. A close knit group of seniors made up the majority of the team, and throughout the season there were always great times to be had - not always on the court but definitely off.

By midseason our practice court became Friendly's Restaurant. They have great ice-cream but they could use some better help.

There was always something to touch your front teeth about with this team. Near death bus rides helped the team pull together. (Granted it was probably because we all had to rush to one side to prevent the bus from tipping over, but nevertheless, it did help!) Through good times and bad we stuck together, and I think speaking for everyone, I can say that some great friendships were made. I think that this "bunch" will always remain special friends.

Always one step ahead! Senior captain Andrea Campenelle eyes a possible lane for a drive past the defense to the hoop.

You can't have it! Senior Kristen Hartnett assumes absolute possession of this ball.

It's effortless! Senior captain Carole Dutchka gained another two points for Marlboro with this beautiful lay-up.

It gets nasty under there! Senior captain Christen Dutchka and Freshman Lauren Rigney battle with the Nashoba defense for a rebound. Christen's grimace indicates her effort to get that ball out of the Chieftain's paws.

In the line of duty! Junior Jamie Bennett joins Seniors Leslie Hartlen, Christen Dutchka, Andrea Campenella and Carole Dutchka in the ranks of those who are very important to the success of the team.

As Tim Kiley put it, this season was "like a roller coaster." Most of the team felt this way throughout the whole season. We started off as a team of 14 players but for one reason or another, we went down to 9. The team had many different egos and so we could not act as a unit. If we did not get to play or if the coach yelled at us, we sulked around like spoiled brats instead of sucking it up and taking it like men. We had impressive wins against Fitchburg and North Middlesex, but after those games, the egos took control again. We lost to some teams we should have crushed, but for the most part, we did okay.

If the boys' freshman basketball team had one claim to fame, it was that everyone on the team scored at least 2 points by the end of the season. Granted, the teammates fought amongst themselves almost every day and only won two of their games. Yes, their bus driver dropped them off at the wrong school once, so that they had to walk a mile in order to play, but their last game made up for all these hardships. In this final showdown, the team finally looked like a TEAM. They played extremely well, both as individuals and as a whole, and had a lot of fun doing it. Hopefully, the memory of this last gallant effort will draw all the boys back to play for the junior varsity and varsity teams next year.

Their record may not show it, but this year was great for the players on the JV girls' basketball team. The season was not necessarily about winning, but more about team togetherness and learning from each other. They had to overcome the initial intimidation they felt practicing with the varsity every night. Once they started not worrying about it, and instead focused on just "going for it" in order to improve, they became more confident. Whether they were practicing or playing a game, it did not matter who they were playing. All that mattered was that Marlboro was out on the court playing basketball TOGETHER as a team. As long as they played as a team, they would be successful. That was what the season was all about. Oh, and never forget what the coach used to say all the time: "I feel it in my bones."

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Standing: Christine Sordillo, Bethany Quinton, Coach Karen Tanona, Kelly Joyce, Sarah Whitney.
Kneeling: Kelly Parente, Jennifer Barrille, Jessica DeGrace, Cynthia Dunn, Jennifer Temple, Emily Welton.
Sitting: Alyssa Stetson, Laura DeSimone, Maureen Bonner, Sara Ponte, Jessica Boudreaux.

This freshman girls' basketball team may not have won the majority of their games, but they had a lot of spirit and camaraderie. Those are two very important characteristics that could make these girls into a tightly knit varsity powerhouse someday. They had team dinners the night before a game. They even puffy painted socks to wear on the court sometimes. And who knows? Maybe Jen Temple's growling strategy will continue to intimidate the players she confronts during the remainder of her high school basketball career! Good luck, girls!

The MHS wrestling team enjoyed enormous success this year.

The most exciting meet was against Hudson. We came to school half an hour early in order to weigh in. After school we all went over Tim Gardner's to watch movies to get ourselves in the right mindset. Finally it was time. Dressed in our singlets, we were prepared to take on our rivals. Hudson won the first and last matches, but in between, the Panther grapplers won 11 straight en route to a 64-12 victory. The most exciting matches had to be between J.J. Donohue and Hudson's McChesney. Twice J.J. made a come back against McChesney while down by more than 10 points.

At the Central Sectional Division II meet, MHS placed 3rd, the highest ever, and qualified 8 wrestlers plus 2 alternates for the State Tournament. Harry Coffin, Joe Collins, and Greg Marganoni took 1st places while Dave Coffin took a 2nd. Jason Dutchka and Jason Reyes places 3rd and J.J. Donohue and Tim Gardner took 4th. Alternates Chris Barber and Mike Hayes each placed 6th, but Hayes would have placed higher had he not hurt his neck in his second match. Hayes still wrestled and won one of his following two matches. Mike said of his efforts, "The way I see it, pain is a part of wrestling. If a wrestler wants it bad enough pain means nothing."

At the State meet, Joe Collins and Harry Coffin placed, qualifying for All-States. Coffin was wrestling with a slight concussion in his last two matches and still won both. At All-States, MHS accomplished something never done before. Both wrestlers qualified, one as an alternate, for New Englands. Coffin again suffered from a concussion but kept wrestling his way to 8th place. Collins placed 5th, thus becoming only the second wrestler from MHS to become an All-New England Wrestler.

The only way to describe the 1994-95 season for the varsity ice hockey team is unbelievable. For the first time in many years the Panthers not only emerged with a winning record, but had an extremely successful three months. Front linesmen Brian O'Malley, Tim Lacroix, Mike Lopes and others made great offensive contributions. In addition, defensemen Brian Lacroix, Pete Lacroix and Jack Langelier did outstanding jobs protecting the Panther zone. Senior goaltender Chris Burnham marked his most effective year with a remarkable 3.3 goals against average. Overall, the effort and perseverance put forth by every player was outstanding and led to the best MHS season in some time.

Those of you who were members of the 1994-95 season know that, together with a positive attitude and dedication, you can go far. Many new people and veterans helped put together one of the most spirited and successful teams ever. New coach, Gretchen McCracken helped bond together a variety of personalities, and with her encouragement, she helped to form a team of lasting friendships.

In every single meet, people improved their times, heights and distances. By the end of the season other teams knew that Marlborough was a group of tough individuals creating an unsundering team.

A big thank you goes out to Kelly and her mom for making scrunchies for the entire team! Congratulations to every one for making the 1994-95 season one of the best ever.

-by Jessie Savage & Jen Manell

Although the boys' indoor track team was unable to win any team meets this year, the team was filled with individuals who performed above and beyond coach Rennie's expectations.

Marlboro's team competition ended at the league meet, but individuals went on to compete in state-wide competition.

The 1994-95 season was a very educational one. As the majority of the team was first-year players, few victories were produced. There was, however, much improvement. Angelo Pucillo, Dave Newbould, Chris Ruggeiro and Greg Tremelling, all newcomers to the sport, rapidly caught on and became fantastic team players. Veterans Wayne Beauregard, Bill Carlson and Anthony Pacific provided stellar performances on the ice. Strong encouragement was given by Coach Gardner and Coach Pacific, both of whom stressed, the most important aspect of hockey: "to enjoy yourself."

BEHIND THE Scenes

School spirit at MHS links us all together

Alright, Marlboro! MHS underclassmen did their part to show school spirit and to support our teams during this winter season as well.

Are you ready? MHS sports trainer, Tanya Hautala, gives last minute directions to these two first-year student trainers at a girls' varsity basketball game.

Hawk-eyed. Senior student trainer, Brenda Kahler, scans the field for potential injuries during a boys' varsity soccer game.

Scoreboard says... Managers - senior Amari Parker and junior Mary-Anne Flynn have fun tallying up points at a girls' varsity basketball game.

Go Panthers! These MHS upperclassmen brought lots of enthusiasm to the field house in support of our boys' varsity basketball team - seen here standing, Senior Keith Biddy often found it hard to sit still during these games.

Wrestle-mania! Seniors Ben Cutone, Joe Collins, Harry Coffin, Chris Barber and J.J. Donohue show off their mascot. Could this good luck charm have been the secret to their success?

Can you feel this? Senior Eric Desaulniers responds with a smile as Tanya's testing for injury appears to tickle.

The big man himself! Mr. Long, coordinator of every MHS sporting event, takes a break from his duties to kick back and watch the game.

Everyone always idolizes the players on MHS's varsity sports teams, but there is an unrecognized team behind the super stardom of the athletes. Where do these famous strikers, point guards, linemen, pitchers, etc. go when they sprain their ankles or tear their quads? They go to see the trainer, but sometimes if Tonya the Trainer is busy; they must rely on a student trainer to tape up their injury. What does it take to be a trainer? It takes extra hours after school to study CPR and First Aid. It takes much practice, taping various parts of the body, including smelly feet. It takes strong stomachs that can stand, not just the sight of blood, but to be able to handle it safely and quickly. It takes commitment to be at all assigned home games. Yet despite all that they do, these student trainers get little to no credit for their work. So here's to the student trainers of Marlboro High!!! Thank you.

Personal Links

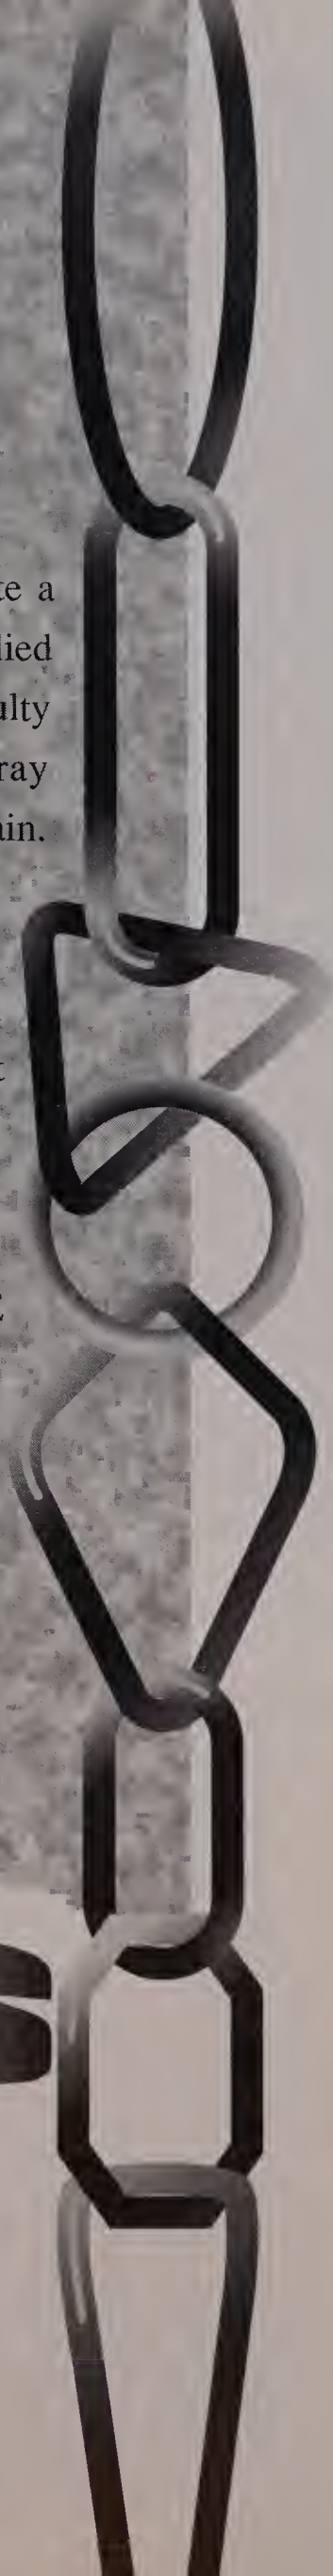

Many links bonded together can create a long, strong chain. This idea can be applied to MHS. Clubs, sports, classes, and faculty are links bonded together to portray Marlboro High School as one whole chain. Although these links are all unique and have different characteristics, they have a common bond: to form the best high school possible. The links are the most important part of our school. Without them, there would be no MHS.

As our cheerleaders would say, "WE ARE THE BEST. WE ARE MHS!"

Marlboro High School bids farewell...

This year Marlboro High School will be saying goodbye to a special math teacher, Mrs. Sheila Mahoney, better known as "MA". After 12 years at the middle school and 14 years at the high school, Mrs. Mahoney's teaching career at MHS has now come to an end. When asked what she's going to do when retiring she says "My dream is to work at a department store while living at the cape." When asked about retiring in June she expressed mixed feelings in that she will miss a great deal of involvement with the kids. "The one thing I want is to be remembered as a person who has thoroughly enjoyed the past twenty-five years in teaching. One of the things I won't miss is getting up in the morning, however, I will miss my contact with the kids, fellow teachers and drama club."

Since Mrs. Mahoney's been teaching, there have been many changes to the public school system. The most recent is the 8th grade transition to the high school, but the change that is most significant to her was that the drama club was established and is very active.

Well, there you have it, right from Mrs. Mahoney herself. We all wish you good luck on your retirement and a healthy, happy, safe life. Goodbye Mrs. Mahoney.

Who are teachers' pets...

When you think of teachers' pets, you usually think of a teacher's favorite pupil who has the distinct pleasure of getting special treatment and an easy A. But what about teachers' other pets...

When the bell goes off at 1:45 pm and the teachers are finished their daily routine, they leave the school and head home to someone special who has been waiting all day to greet them. That's right, their pets. Ms. Peterson has the honors of going home to greet her pet "Pirana Jaws" that dwells in a 20 gallon tank and loves to eat shrimp and goldfish. Then there's Mrs. Gruelich who greets her showdog Lily (an English springer spaniel), who she brings to school on "take your daughter to work day." Mrs. O'Brien treats her dog (a chocolate lab named Sammy) as a child. "I spoil him rotten. He often eats with me, but most of all he loves going for long walks through the woods with mom," she said. Ms. Allen and Mrs. Ledoux both have Maine Coon cats. Mrs. Ledoux's cat named Oliver likes to sit on left shoulders and purrr. "Oh, he's just a lovebug!" she exclaimed. Ms. Allen's cats Max and Annabelle like to take showers and talk a special language with each other. Lastly Mrs. Dolmanisth's dog (a schnauzer named Murphy is very intelligent. "He knows the members of my family by name and knows how to spell and identify his toys, but most interesting enough he just loves to watch television, especially the New York Kennel Club Show.

When preparing for this article on teachers pets, I had to interview the teachers. it was amazing how emotional and excited the teachers were to take part in this project. All the teachers made sure to say that teir pets are important members of their family and they were more than happy to boast about the unusual and interesting things that their pets do.

Linking Us to Our Future

With college application deadlines just around the corner, things are very busy in the guidance office. Guidance counselors Mr. Beradino, Mrs. Blanchette, Mrs. Dolmanish, and guidance secretary Mrs. Porier have plenty to do trying to help seniors get transcripts, data sheets, essays, and applications done on time. The counselors are responsible for helping students narrow down their choices of colleges, and determining a way to fund an education at the school of their choice. They also assist students in obtaining college information by arranging for admissions counselors from numerous colleges and universities to speak to students. "It's hard to pick a school," said senior Amy Umina, "but talking to college representatives makes it easier to sort things out."

The four counselors are committed to helping seniors achieve their dreams of higher education. "Seniors get top priority," said Mr. Beradino. "They are welcome in my office any time." The guidance counselors are always there to lend a hand as deadlines rapidly approach and seniors rush to finish their applications.

Mrs. Porier is also an important person to seniors. Without her, data sheets would not get typed, and transcripts would be hard to get. She also posts information about visiting colleges and gathers all the student's application information and sends it to the colleges. "It's amazing," said senior Emily Dalamangas. "I don't know how she gets everything done."

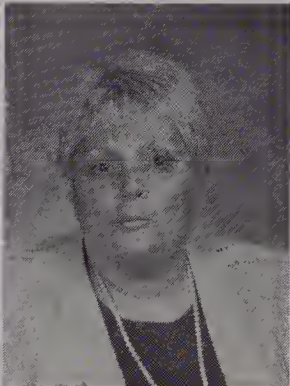

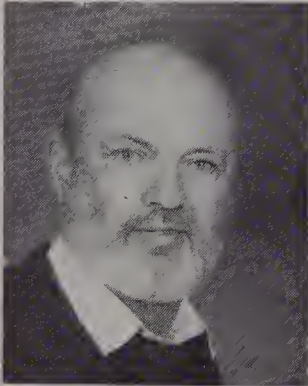

Despite hassles, deadlines, and tons of work, together seniors and members of the guidance department can make this year one to remember.

Second Jobs

The teachers at Marlboro High school are very versatile. Not only do they assume the role as an educator, but several have jobs outside of school. Teachers also manage to fit time in with the family in their demanding schedules. What amazing people! We are going to take sometime to recognize some specific teachers and their "second jobs." One of the many talented teachers in the science departments is Mr. Melehov. In addition to instructing physics class he is an Orthodox Priest! Despite his two jobs, he said that it wasn't difficult for him to balance work & family... what a guy! Another multifaceted science teacher is Mr. Courchine. On the off hours off hours of the winter one may find him plowing snow or during the summer designing pools. What a handy guy! Recognize the musician behind the drum set at the club you just danced at? It could have been Mr. Fader, the social studies teacher who enjoys playing music. Mrs. Collins must like working with clothes. It is possible that you could run into her at Filenes the next time you go the mall to buy an outfit. Steal third! This two word phrase is something "Coach Riggs" might say during the spring season as the boys varsity B-Ball coach. Many teachers listed parenting as their second job choice. Mrs. Leavey, Mrs. Simmons, Mr. Banta enjoy spending time with their children! Some other interesting 3rd job choices included waitressing, banking, tutoring and coaching.

Would you rather be in the Middle School or do you like it here in the High School?

Kirk Smith says, "High school is way better because there is more stuff to do, and there are no sports in the Middle School. Uhhh, that's about all I have to say about that!"

When we asked Courtney Devlin she said, "I like it better in the High School because it's a new experience with older kids, and it gives us a chance to meet new people."

Michael Schavone also agrees that the High School is the place to be. He said, "I like the High School uhh, I don't know, because like, it's fun being a little kid. Is my name going to be in the yearbook?"

We knew exactly what Jillian Stone was thinking. OLDER GUYS!! OLDER GUYS!! OLDER GUYS!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

But in her own words she said, "I think I like the High School better cause, hmmm, well there are more activities, and we get to see the older kids."

On the other hand an anonymous student says that he/she doesn't like the High School because it's busy and crowded. Plus the younger students get pushed around too much!

But it seems to us and probably to you too that, for the most part, the class of 1999 likes being at Marlboro High School.

The 8th grade officer election are held in the fall as opposed to the spring before they start school and sometimes this may cause a bit of a delay in kicking off the year's activities. This year's officers are President Kelly Parente, Vice President Crystal MacKenzie, Secretary Gail Dao, Treasure Katie Landers and advisor Mr. Fahey.

These class officers chose to make up for the delay and quickly get down to business. They started off by collecting dues early in the fall. The officers were responsible for encouraging their classmates to participate in the "Beautify Marlboro High," the school-wide clean up. The turnout was pretty impressive. Some ideas they had for fund-raising were selling candy after school in the foyer and selling Easter items later in the spring. The biggest fund-raiser of all, and of course the most exciting event for the eighth graders was the Valentine's Day Dance they held on February 3rd in the cafeteria. This was an informal event. The room was filled with Valentine and winter cheer, red hearts and streamers all around.

The class of '99 and their officers have worked together to make their first year at Marlboro High a great one.

Freshman TEAMS

Being on a freshman team. What it's really all about? "Having Fun!" said Christine Sordillo,, member of the girls freshman soccer team. "Until you're at the JV and Varsity level winning shouldn't be what it's all about."

Others have said such things as "Learning is a lot of what you do on a freshman team. You learn skills, techniques and teamwork as team." Personally I think its a chance for us to meet all of the older kids and get a chance to learn their skills.. I also feel that all of the memories and having fun while learning play a major role in what being on freshman team is all about.

When I asked people if they would rather be on a JV or Varsity team, I got a wide range of answers. Some such as "No Way! It's to much fun!" "No , most of us weren't ready and have to learn before we go up to a more advanced level." Sometimes it's embarrassing when all of your friends are on JV or Varsity and you're only on FRESHMAN but it has its advantages and disadvantages. "Yeah, we wouldn't be put down if we were on Jv or Varsity." One person that I asked said "Sometimes if I was on either of those two teams I'd be on different team with different people and things just would'nt be the same as they were this year." People don't think a freshman team is a real team anymore. It may not be the most important team but it's still a team if you put your heart into it.

Overall being on a freahman team is not all bad if you have the right frame of mind and attitude. It is a great learning experience along with having fun !!

Freshman FIRSTS

Freshman year is the beginning of your high school career. It is the stepping stone for preparing for what is to come during the next four years. A freshman faces many new experiences, and the fact is that now he or she is coming closer and closer to being an adult with many decisions to make. One of the most common responsibility testers for this point in a freshman's life is getting a job. That's right working for a paycheck instead of getting an allowance from Mom and Dad. After all, class dues, proms and affording a car are expenses right around the corner.

Freshman Bradley Schmitz who works as a dishwasher at Sully's First Edition says that "It's tough working until 11:00 on week nights sometimes, but I only work on Wednesdays and Sundays so it is not that bad." Brad is starting early to save up for a car.

Jim Barry (pictured here) who is also a responsible freshman with a job as a dishwasher and a busboy at New Horizons Restaurant adds, "I don't work too many hours so that I'm not too busy with school. I'm trying to save up for a car, but so far I've been spending all of my money."

One student works as a peer leader for Project Heart. Project Heart is an organization that puts on performances and plays to elementary students on the subject of Smoking Prevention. She added that she loves her job because she loves meeting new people and teaching small kids. She is saving up to get her own phone line and a VCR.

Getting your first job can either be a nuisance or it can be rewarding, but most of all your first job is just the best thing to get you prepared for the future. So enjoy it while you can, for jobs will come and go, and your survival in today's world will depend on it.

Freshman year is definitely one of the toughest years of high school to get used to, but being here for one year already as eighth graders has made freshman year a piece of cake for the Class of 1998.

Another way to make the year more fun for everyone is taking on the responsibility of being a class officer. This is just what these four students have done. The officers of the Class of 1998 are: President Chris Scott, Vice President Bethany Quinton, Treasurer Bridget Navin and Secretary Christine Nawrocki.

To start the year these students worked on putting together a fundraiser for their class to put towards the events of the year, most importantly the Freshman-Sophomore Semi-Formal, which is a great deal of work all alone! Another idea the officers stirred up, with the help of their advisor Mr. Marscharelli, was putting on a presentation for the freshman class on the subject of Violence Prevention, funded by a grant they received from the Saving Lives Program.

In the fall Spirit Week would not have been as much success or as much fun without the officers and the great help they got from their friends and classmates who all worked together. Responsibilities and the weekly tasks of the class officers are always as easy as 1-2-3, but if it means having a good time and linking everyone together, than it is a job well done!!!!

It may seem to some that being a sophomore is pretty boring, but not for the class of 1997. The officers of the class have made sure that the year was extremely busy and that fun was had by all.

To start the year off, the sophomores helped organize School Picture Day. They handled the sticky job of making up the schedule and sending the postcards all the students. The work was tough but they received a great profit to put in the treasury for all their service. They also started fundraising early by selling juices at Field Day. The biggest fund-raider they conducted was selling boxes of M+Ms. Mrs. Richov was delighted to see that almost half the class participated. What was all this fundraising for...? Why of course, the most important event of the year was in February - the Freshman-Sophomore Semi-Formall!!! A committee was formed to come up with a super creative theme..."A Snowy Soiree." The cafeteria was fabulously embellished with a combo of winter snowflakes and Valentine hearts.

Through all the business of the year, the officers did not fail to complete the not-so-fun tasks, like collecting dues from everyone and keeping track of the money in the account. All this hard work paid off with a fun-filled, successful year!

10th Grade Officers

HIGH above THE REST

Our Junior gym class has definitely proven to be one of the most memorable experiences of our high school career. The theme is continual throughout the course.... "challenge by choice." That phrase seemed to be the motto of my C period class. Mr. Reynolds is one of the many teachers who teach this sort of wilderness obstacle course. He was very supportive of students during all of the various "challenges" that we endeavored throughout the semester. Canoeing, rock climbing and "trust falls" were among the most memorable of the activities in which we participated. But, perhaps the most discussed project adventure challenge...yes folks, is the infamous "log walk." Those students that were afraid of heights didn't particularly like this portion of the class. The following is a brief overview of what takes place during this experience.

The "walk" consists of strapping yourself into a harnessed rope and climbing a ladder. (Most don't make it any further than this, they jump down and dangle for a few seconds from the rope until hitting the ground). From the top of the ladder one is expected to maneuver slightly to the left and onto a microscopic...peg, if you will, that is by some ironic twist considered a "safe" foot hold. After grappling for a seemingly endless amount of time, you, if you're lucky, locate four more of these "lifesaving pegs" until you reach a "V" in the tree. You sit in this "V" realizing that it is the only thing keeping you alive. Your thoughts are interrupted when you glance up...you're only half done! Collecting yourself, you shimmy up in between the two trunks and up onto a smaller branch where you then sit and cry.

You have successfully watered the vegetation below (not a class requirement) and it is now time to mount the platform and the ever famous LLLLOOOGGG! With the skill of a trained professional you prance across the log, trashing your original plan to spit on your least favorite classmate. Who needs to bother with him...YOU'RE ON TOP OF THE WORLD!! You stop and look up and down to reflect on this hair raising experience. You did it! You've completed the "MHS "log walk!" Your apprehensiveness now gone, the thrill of victory quickly vanishing, you can think of only ONE thing as you jump down and plummet towards the ground below...CAN THE WHOLE CLASS SEE UP MY GYM SHORTS???

What do you think of when you hear “Junior year?” Well, of course, exciting events like the junior prom, choosing class colors and motto and getting organized for a great senior year. The group of people who made it all happen this year were President Jen Manell, Vice President Jen Luftig, Secretary Mary-Anne Flynn, Treasurer Cristina Rigney and Advisor Mr. Rigney. The officers started the activities early on Columbus Day when members of the Jr. Class painted the Panther Paws all over the grounds of the school. The class chose to recognize the teachers who helped in preparing the November 23, 1994 special report to the NEASC for the accreditation of the school. The class of ’96 had a new fund-raising idea of holding a raffle which brought them over nine hundred dollars! Nine hundred dollars to put toward a fantastic prom! The officers, their advisor and members of the class were responsible for organizing the Jr. Prom. The theme song for this year’s Jr. Prom was “This Is the Time” by Billy Joel. Each activity throughout the year required a lot of time and cooperation by everyone. With all the hard work and dedication of the the officers and Mr. Rigney, a memorable year was promised to all.

Back to the 80s! Aimee Gauthier and Cory Mulvey keep school spirit alive by dressing up during spirit week.

Smiling seniors. Erin McCurley and Amari Parker stop for a quick chat between classes.

Bonjour! French teacher, Mrs Simmons is surrounded by some of her favorite senior students.

Give me a smooch! Senior, Matt Hassapes is always looking for a good kiss.

Always together! Alyson Arline, Stephanie Mandozzi and Erica Carey always share laughs in the hallway.

Life long friends. From elementary school to senior year in high school, Christen Dutchka and Jeff Cotton are still good buddies.

It's finally here! It seems as though we have waited so long for "senior year" and once it came we never realized just how crazy it would be. So much fun to have, but also so much work to do!

We soon found that exciting events like senior skits, dances, rallies and fund-raisers don't happen by themselves. A great amount of work, extra time and effort was put into each activity by the senior class officers and the amazing senior class advisor Mrs. Bethke. The officers of the senior class this year were President Carole Dutchka, Vice President Amari Parker and Treasurer Joe Collins. These three dedicated seniors, Mrs. Bethke and members of the senior class put forward their best effort to make sure the entire school enjoyed the Homecoming festivities.

The seniors worked up to graduation day collecting aluminum cans to save the bank account, not to mention dealing with the change of having the new principal, Mr. McClennen, in office.

We sincerely thank the officers as well as Mrs. Bethke for all of their hard work and dedication. They did a commendable job representing the senior class and addressing the concerns of their fellow class members. Though their work seems never-ending, they have always been in control. Thank goodness, for we couldn't have done it without them!

12th Grade Officers

A large, rectangular stone or concrete welcome sign for Marlboro. The sign is set against a background of trees. It features a decorative border with ornate corner pieces. The text is arranged in several lines: 'MARLBORO' in large, bold, serif capital letters; 'A TOWN 1660' in smaller, bold, serif capital letters below it; a smaller rectangular inset containing 'MAYOR J. MICHAEL M...' and 'AND THE MARLBOROUGH CITY C...'; and 'Welcome You' in a large, elegant script font at the bottom.

Joint Efforts

Do you know who BINDS the pages of this book? It is not only the students of the school, but also our friends, families, and businesses throughout the community. While sharing their love and memories with us, our parents contribute a large part of funds through the senior baby ads. The local businesses of Marlboro and other places close by get a chance to show what they have to offer while donating it to all of us. Other clubs and organizations get involved in the teamwork by contributing what they can or simply just lending a hand.

As you can see, it is not just a few, but many who work hard to link everyone together into the pages of this book, while also linking our past to our future.

Alyssa Fay

"Life is like a box of chocolates, you never know what you're going to get." Alyss, these are a few words to take to heart and always remember with every step you take in life. You've achieved so much in your 17 years, there's no stopping you now. Approach the world in leaps and bounds, with independence, confidence, femininity, but most of all happiness. You've brought my life endless happiness with memories to last a lifetime. As far as not knowing what life is going to bring you, I'm glad it brought me a sister like you.

ILYVM

Jessica

Dear Alyssa,

Hopefully, this message will make it into the yearbook the first time around, unlike everything else that's happened this year. We are very proud of the young lady you've grown into in the blink of an eye. Although you may hit some rough spots along the road ahead, don't let anything stop you from reaching your dreams. Our advice (yikes) is to go for the gusto and have some fun in the process.

Love,

Mom and Dad

Christen Dutchka & Carole Dutchka

Make it a good one! Senior Andriy Lets hands the baton off to classmate, Harry Coffin. The hand off is a critical point in the relay because if it's good, you make a good time. If it is bad, the team risks losing time.

Go for launch. Senior Jessie Savage is about to hurl the javelin into the sky for a beautiful long distance throw.

Another record? Senior Leslie Hartlen heaves the shot put into the air, showing great skill and athleticism.

On your mark, get set... Senior Bonnie McDonald is ready to go, thrusting herself out of the starting blocks for MHS.

And there off! Marlboro underclassmen come out of the blocks determined to win this dash for their school.

Good eye. Senior Lance Podlesney watches the ball, about to come from the pitcher's hand, so he can make a good hit.

Right here, baby. Sophomore Gordon Halliday moves into the rolling baseball's path to grab it and throw it for an out.

There it goes! Senior Seth Margadonna watches his hit soar into the air, hoping it won't be caught on the fly, while the team looks on from behind.

Alright guys... Senior J.J. Donohue discusses strategy with his teammates before the game resumes.

Huddle! The Varsity team puts their hands together with Coach Rigney for a quick but rallying cheer to get psyched for the game. The team had a discouraging start at the beginning of the season, but these guys pulled through for a decent record and a satisfying season.

Next at bat... Junior Justin Bilancieri steps toward the plate, wiping his hand before taking the batter's stance.

Swing! Freshman Maureen Bonner eyes the softball as she prepares to hit it into the outfield.

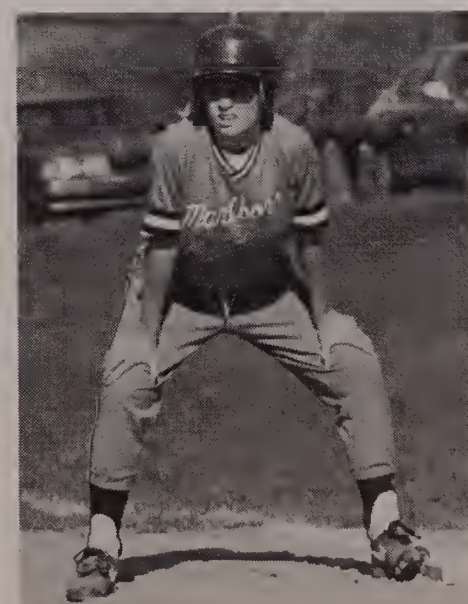

Right into my mitt. Senior catcher Kathy Lombardo hopes to get the ball before the batter has a chance.

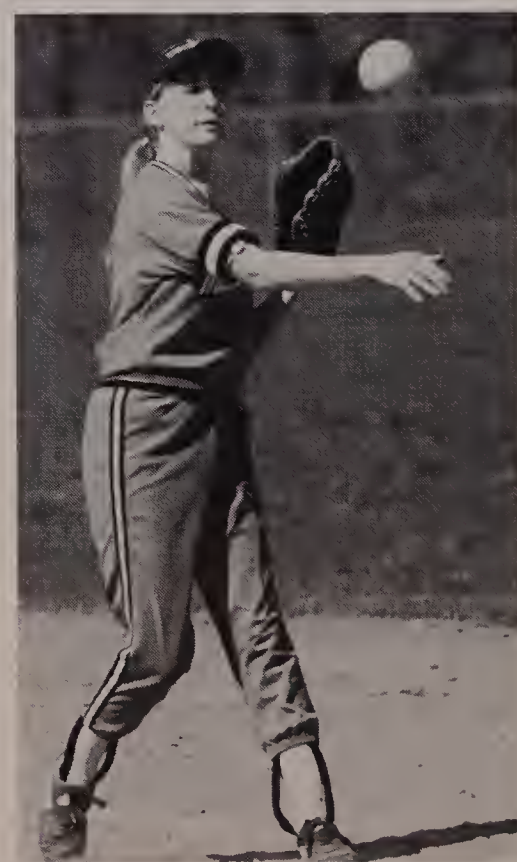

Ready for whatever comes. Senior Linda Hayes is as reliable at second as she is in any other sports position.

The bench. This wooden plank is the domain of hurt or tired players, attentive managers and stressed coaches. Here we see all of the above as Seniors Jamie Raeke, Kaitlyn MacNeil, Sara Dalamangas and Coach Rogers.

Bring me home. Sophomore Kristen Vallee looks around as she gets ready to run to second base at the next opportune moment.

No sissy throws here! Junior Shannon Smith throws the ball to base for a hopeful out.

Many thanks to all of the trainers for their contributions to MHS's athletic program.

It's in there! Sophomore Kevin Bracken awaits the inevitable birdie of this beautiful putt.

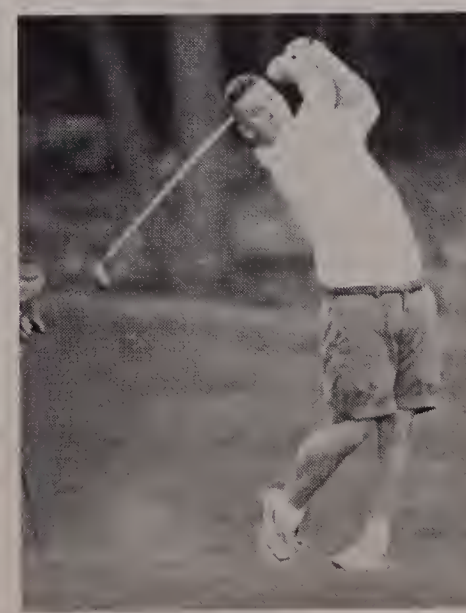

Hook or slice?! Senior Adam Keigwin, with a powerful hit, sends the golf ball hurling through the air.

Concentration. Senior Ben Cutone assesses the situation to determine how to best play this shot.

Where's it going? Senior Adam Keigwin follows the ball to see exactly where his swing takes it.

Four! With perfect form, Senior Ben Cutone drives the ball down the course fairway.

Gold Chains

Dressed to the nines. Aimee Gauthier and Janice Robichaud capture memories on film.

Geeks with attitudes. John, Ryan, Benny, Sully, BABA & J.J. always have a good time, whether they are with girls or potted plants.

Hassa's done it again! He comes to the prom with only one date, yet leaves with ten. What a stud! (Bzzzzzzzz, suddenly Hassa's alarm clock goes off, waking him from dreamland.)

Bust a move! Living it up at the prom are Brian Stupik and Mrs. Roache. Don't they look like they're having fun?!

Cuff Links...

Royalty at its best. Senior Prom Queen Amari Parker and King Brian Stupik take the floor and dance to 'Into the Mystic' - the senior prom song.

B-B-B-Benny & the plant. What more could you ask for in a prom date? She has great curves, looks pretty in pink and above all - she doesn't talk back!

And they're off! Adam Keigwin and Isis Dallas are ready to leave the reception but pose for one more photo.

Say cheese... again! Getting pictures taken about 100 times and not knowing which direction to look in is a classic dilemma during the pre-prom reception.

Did I rip it?! Kelli Mulligan tries to be extra careful not to rip the toilet paper, as partner Helena Guerra stands still during one of the late night all-nighter activities.

Jamming with a true cowboy! Christen Dutchka releases her enthusiasn for Garth Brooks!

LATE NIGHT BONDING...

What fun would it be without each other? Prom dates and cute couple Rob Cummings and Diane Gamache take time out for a quick hug.

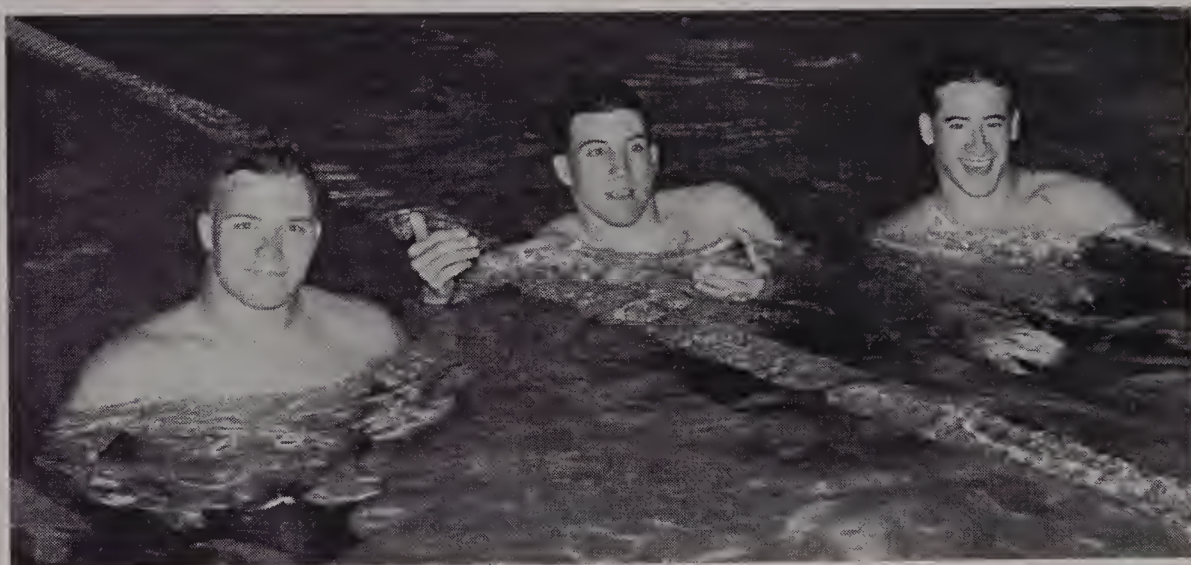

Snapple break. Seniors Erin McCurley, Paul Mavilia, Dawn Kennison, Dave Magri and Aimee Gauthier take a rest from the activities for some drinks and a photo.

Time for a pick-me-up! Sara Williams gets her prom hair-do rejuvenated by the hairstylist at the all-nighter.

Get into the groove! Highlights of the night were the ongoing karaoke performances. Jen White, Jaimie "Jay Dog" Bell, Nicole "Blanchie" Blanchard and Kate Barry put Madonna to shame!

Come on in! Ben Cutone, Darren Conrad and Chris Barber stay awake at the all-nighter by going for a late-night dip. Benny, did your potted companion forget her suit?

Don't fall asleep. Peter Midura and Leslie Hartlen sneak in a quick breather between all-nighter activities.

Hey baby, what's your sign? Brenda Berry learned about her future plans from the astrologer.

Chain letters...

I, Alyson Arline, leave my big eyes and attitude to Kate, all the bushings to Amanda, many pictures to Isis, MHS to Shanette, my deepest thanks to Mr. K, and many memories to Erica, Shanette, Steph, Heather, Patti, Leslie, Christine and Lisa.

I, Dinis Avila, leave all of my love to Jen Collins. Thanks for being there. I will never forget you.

I, Keith Biddy, leave B.C. Hoops to Kevin Clancy, a dictionary to Beth Brady, peanut butter M&Ms to Kate Ahern, my name to Tim and Katie Biddy and some Irish blood to Mr. Banta.

I, Marissa Brown, leave all my tardies to Hank, the big yellow bus and nickname "Brownie" to Lor, sports memories to CR and PL, money for needed new uniforms to Mr. Long, shotgun in any van to KP, BQ, MB, KV, EC and SS and my sense of humor and personality to Mrs. Poirier.

I, Joe Bucciarelli, leave my mother's nagging to Jay, every piece of gum I ate on her to C. Cole and my excuses to Mr. K.

I, Debbie Bush, leave to Marlboro High School my daughter, Samantha Voice, to attend in thirteen years.

I, Nicole Buturlia, leave my tardies to Danielle Lott, the rest of my credits to Holly Rielly and my late trips into school to Cori Mauchan.

I, Erica Michele Cary, leave my Jamaicans to Jessica, G-sipe to Shanette, all our memories, good and bad, to the rest of the crew. I won't forget you guys and thanks, Mr. K.

I, Emily Chudzikiewicz, leave some lovely scented Swedish fish and all my breakfasts at Bickford's to Debbie Falconi, my Van Halen T-shirt to Ricki and Falconi, all my grades and absences to Craig Klindenst and my cow to Carlson!

I, Rick Cincotta, leave some rope and shaving cream to Mike, another shot to Phil, a date with Adrienne to Ed, clear speech to Jaimee, the power to have a clue to Janice and some donuts to Mr. Banta.

I, Harry Coffin, leave the bus to Dave Coffin and Chris Nordello, the wrestling team to Tim Gardner, Taco Bell to Jeff Coffin and the first state champ and this beautiful and enjoyable school to Dave. I, Richie Coffin, leave the school to my brother, Jeff, and all his friends, the cheese wagon to my brother, Jason, (until Jeff gets the van), T.K.'s H.A. to Kate G. and Dawn K., and I'll have to leave Phil Anzelmo and a box of tissues for my cousin, Dave.

I, Jen Collins, leave the rides in the Catalina to everyone who has had the privilege to ride in it, "Sunday's Best" to Brian Stupik, good times and memories with the "pretties" and all of my love and my heart to Dinis Avila.

I, Merredith Collins, leave my little red Subaru to Marissa, my PMS to Paul, my band trips to Shin-Yi, my reeds and solos to Barbara and every pair of blue socks I ever owned to Tom Lambert.

I, Sean Corcoran, leave lipstick and flour to Mike Cincotta, the power to speak in full sentences to Tim Biddy, a muzzle to Kate Ahern, a voicebox to Jaimie Sharkey, coughdrops to Janice Lefevre and Ireland to Mr. Banta.

I, Ben Cutone, leave my oversized football helmet to Scott Giroux, my feeding tube to my brother Adam, an order of buffalo wings to Chris Christo, a sense of humor to lead our fearless football team into battle to T.J. Raeke and a sense of direction for any country he may visit to Mr. Banta.

I, Emily Dalamangas, leave a ride to Bridgewater to Bryan, a "frog" to Kate and a spaghetti pizza to Mrs. Pasciarelli.

I, Sara Dalamangas, leave trips to Bridgewater to my buddy Bryan, Biology class memories to Kim, Kate and Jen, dog biscuits to Sammy and my bologna and Velveeta sandwiches to anyone who will eat them.

I, Heidi D. Dalton, leave all my maturity to Erin Place and all the rumors behind to MHS.

I, Monique DeBeaucourt, leave all my tardies to the Learning Center, the long road to Walgreen's and Natick men to Nicolette, my academic ability to my cousin, Katie, bye bye to Alicia and Betty Suc memories to Autumn.

I, Tina DeMarco, leave all my taxi services to my sister, Pam, lotion to April, 2050 to McBurney, hot pink nail polish to Jen, and to my sister, Andria, I leave all my credits because God knows she'll need all of them.

I, Eric DeSaulniers, leave all my left over credits to Matt and I leave to Liz my love forever.

I, Mark DiRienzo, leave a Spirit Pole and the contents of the pit to Tim Gardner, my car to Dave Coffin, the best of luck in whatever he does to my brother, Matt, and finally I leave pity on all who are left at MHS!

I, Christie Dolan, leave all my Italy and Greece stories to Mr. Banta, my indigestion from school lunch to Ben, rest and peace to Mrs. Bethke, my favorite dark colors to Jen and my hopes to an incoming freshman.

I, Michelle Domingos, leave to Amanda the llama and endless summer nights, and to my word processing buddies I leave the lectures on "the other side."

I, J.J. Donohue, leave to the future football teams of MHS the patience to deal with Coach Holland.

I, Rachel Donahue, leave five dollars to Paul Mavilia, the daily runs to Brian, endless Fruit Loops to Holly and memories that will not be forgotten to Kaitlyn Enright.

I, Carole Dutchka, pass #20 on to Isis Dallis, and I leave to the soccer team the ability to persevere through all hardships and to Tonya the Trainer I leave tape, ace bandages, hydroculators, saline solution and all the other stuff I always needed. Thanks for taking care of me! To Charlotte I leave muffins and a diet Sprite and to everyone else I leave the determination to live life to your fullest potential!

I, Christen Dutchka, leave #22 to Laura Lehane.

I, Debbie Falconi, leave all the pool games and dinners at Bickford's to Emily C., my Ken Schrader card to Bill C. and a bag of Swedish fish with a napkin inside for those unsuspected times when you need to pull over to the side of the road - you know who you are, E.C.

I, Alyssa Fay, leave my greatest weekends ever to the Rose Gang, my freakiness to Marissa, a car battery and gas to Jess, my attitude to Mrs. Bank and a shovel and Brownie Bites to Ms. Bean.

I, Rachel Ferrante, leave my greatest thanks and appreciation to Mr. K, Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Bethke, my pens to Ryan Jaques, my lunch box and my strength to put up with the 8th graders to Felicia Mayers, my baseball hats to Jeff Mahoney, my hairspray, a gift certificate to Marshall's and my advice to Seth Margadonna, and lastly, while I attend Burdett to further my education, I leave all my love to my boyfriend, Mike Murphy.

I, Daniela Freitas, leave my coffee to Claudia, my mornings to Isabella and my music...well...that I will keep forever.

I, Diane Gamache, leave the number 10 to Chris Gamache, a ride home to Jamie Bennett, the confidence to shoot to Amy Morrisey and the memories of the Rte. 9-9 to live forever! Many thanks to AC, LH, KH and CD!!

I, Paul Garcia, leave all my left over credits to my cousin, Rachel, all the salt and pepper in the world to Stacy, a lifetime supply of Cheez-its to Dithers and a full retirement plan with a bottle of dye to Ma.

I, Kate Gilmore, leave our last "End Line" to Kim R., our "talks" at the nurse to Becky L., the best of luck to Erin O., a bottle of "wash and curl" to Jackie C., a special thank-you to Dawn K. and Erin M. and all my love to Tim L.

I, Helena Guerra, leave my Spanish to Mrs. Pasciarelli, my accent to Beth and Danielle, my winter coat to the next exchange student, a box of ziploc mini snack bags to Kate, Emily, Kristen, Linda and Wendy and my pens to Joe, John and Corey.

I, Amy Hall, leave all our rides to Linda, the adventures, "Grease" and the other town to Kate A., our "secret" talks to Janice, a hubcap to Kristen, a bobby hat to Mr. Banta, a blind date, a spoon and a bathing suit to Colleen, what could have been to Benny, and the best of luck at college to all my friends.

I, Kristen Hartnett leave the #4 ball to Kate Ahern, first singles to Kara, the best of luck to the class of '95, NHS duties to Lisa and Mr. M. and a lifelong friendship with KYP and the gang.

I, Linda Hayes, leave my goalpost to Melissa, missions to Vallee and Kate, bee sessions with Isis to Kate, good luck to Mike and the memories to KYP and friends.

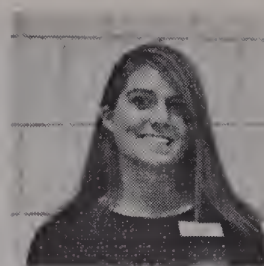

I, Beth Henderson, leave memories of times both good and bad and plans for more exciting adventures to come to ALL of my friends, nothing to Georgi and Sara - we'll always be together!, unending thank yous to Ms. Bethke and Mr. K, a happy face to the world and to Tony, I leave my heart.

I, Ryan Jaques, leave my car keys to Steve Murtoff, my knee brace to Shaun O'Reilly, boneless buffalo wings to Tom Lambert, a cigar to Kristin Vallee, my Eazy-E CD to Billy Vallee and my puff pants to Keigwin.

I, Laura Jaworek, leave my term paper to Mr. Goldschmidt, SADD to Heather H., Jen B. and Alicia B., all my thanks to Mr. Beradino and Ms. Bethke for all that you have done, wishes for the best of everything to my classmates and good luck to the class of 1996.

I, Jaclyn Kavaleski, leave to Kate Ahern "a box of hot tamalies," my soccer goal and a piece of my heart to my sis, Melis and one last lunch date and the best of luck to Elaine and Stacey.

I, Adam J. Keigwin, leave the puff pants to Golden, my hometown fever to T.L. and finally, my heart to Isis.

I, Christine Kelley, leave my ability to spell her name to Mandy Tonelli, my ability to deal with Mrs. Toohey to Amanda Lombardi, all the smiles and frowns that we shared to Mrs. Toohey, all our shared memories to all my friends, my presidency to J.V. and my beloved name, Tigger, to M.T.

I, Jill Keyes, leave my Spanish skills to Talia Luongo and Mrs. Toohey and chorus to Heather Hicks.

I, Wendy Kline, leave my car to Matthew, a ticket to Florida to Mrs. Pascarelli, my skirt to Mrs. Greulich, a student for Goldshmidt to make fun of and I leave behing my spirit of the KYP! May the memories of the KYP remain at MHS forever!

I, Lisa LaBranche, leave my Van Halen ticket stub to Dave Newbould, the drive up window and secrets in the breakroom to Melissa Cummings and my ticket to the cafeteria and my Beastie Boys T-shirt to Erin Place.

I, Bill Lahey, leave my extra credits to Dave and Cliff, a hat and a pair of clippers to Jeff, a pop-tart to Christy C., a Boston Cream donut to Mr. Banta and thanks to everyone who helped me.

I, Shin-Yi Lai, leave my speedo to Caitlin Harris and Kristy Veith, my tennis raquet to Jen Lai, black shoes, clogs, ugly red things and guy problems to Kim Keough, my tennis raquet, flute and shoes to Lindsey Lucas, Marlboro Hospital to Reena and Dana, lots of Chinese food to J.J. and Mike, and Merredith gets dim sum.

I, John LeBreton, leave a bagel from "Hooters" to Mrs. Ledoux and Mrs. Ludgate, an autograph from Dan Quayle - maybe he will change - to Mr. McCaffrey and the legacies of Boggs, Angus and Reagan to Jeremiah, Drew, Pat and Greg.

I, Jack LeSage, leave my car to Mr. Hubbard, my lunch and hat to Mr. Banta, my math book to the trash, my fishing rod and a power worm to Justin and my job to Craig.

I, Kathy Lombardo, leave a comfortable seat on the bench to Bethany, money for softball uniforms to M.L., a big mud puddle to Emily Carbone, Mr. Brissette's secretarial work to Jen Wahl and the big orange fluffy chair to whoever gets to it first.

I, Tim Lyons, being of somewhat sound mind and body, leave my advice to Erin (and my wardrobe), my social life (what's left of it) to Jen J., my Bud hat to Jen M., my odd time to Lizard, my hallway look-aways to Kim, my image to Chris S., my mental notes to Dave, my jams to Joey St. Julien and Beamer and to Kara I leave anything else she doesn't already have.

I, Kaitlin MacNeil, leave all my homework to Andy as well as all my tardies, my test and impossible quizzes to all underclassmen, the 8 freedom our school once had, but no more, I leave to the memory of all incoming students.

I, Jeff Mahoney, leave Seb a case of Tostitos, "crunch and munch" to Joel and Adam, another trip with someone to Mark B. and BBQ seeds to Lance.

I, Dave Maier, leave my shave gel and extension cords to Mike Cincotta, my rope and chair to Justin Bilancieri and all the Grateful Dead tee shirts to Mike McGrath.

I, Stephanie Mandozzi, leave my stickers to Seth Margadonna, my maternity clothes to Jessica Clark, my partying life to Megan Christmas, my high school years and support to my sister, Lisa, all my love and my heart to my boyfriend and best friend, Vinicius Aquiar and my car rides and memories I will never forget to "The Crew."

I, Erin McCurley, leave the long bus ride to and from school to Ray.

I, Bonnie McDonald, leave my lucky black mittens and soccer memories to Kristin Boches, the District Championship to the Girls' Soccer team, a Grateful Dead ticket to Mr. Freeman and the best times of my life to Penny.

I, Lisa McNally, leave a glass of orange juice to Chris Christo, my half of the brain to the group (split it equally among yourselves) and my grades and my skip days to my sister, Sara. You'll get it for those.

I, Charlene Mei, leave many secrets and memories of St. Maarten to Sandra Angelo, best times in Falmouth and St. Maarten to Kaitlyn Enright and two more great years of high school with your wonderful classmates to Jennifer Bowen.

I, Kelli Mulligan, leave all my English and Gym classes to some poor soul, rancid tasting pickles to Beth, produce scales to Danielle, a prom date with the cute guy from the banquet to Helena and all my thanks to those who helped me through Senior year!

I, Cory Mulvey, leave to my "friend" Karen Z. another year with Steve, to April Bernal a cheer-free year, a movie ticket that's good forever to Aimee, ten rings from Hampton to Alicia, an umbrella for when you're running to my truck in the rain to my cousin, Jenny, my blue pick-up to drive to Keene with, a phone line to herself and four more years to Sara.

I, Liz O'Leary, leave a grain of sand from the million dollar beach to Nicole Kattany and all the great memories with the one I love most, Eric DeSaulniers.

I, Jessie Papalia, leave all my absences to Kate, the bus to Karen, Kate and Kate and good luck to the volleyball team.

I, Amari B. Parker, leave seriously way too much, including: my handwriting to Madame, my princess hair to Steve M., the power of music to Justin B., a kiss for Districts next year to Jimmy V., Missy from North Middlesex to Christy M., good luck with his crazy schedule and with my sis to Cobbinator, the Rebchuck legacy to Joey and Beamer, a breakfast with her brother and a freshmen girls' soccer picture to Laura L., the name "Rudy" to anyone who can identify with it, the stopsign infront of the Framingham Registry to all prospective drivers, a hard act to follow to the NHS officers, the massiveness of U2 to anyone who will truly appreciate it, boohooms, courage, happiness and people who have to be dragged into deep waters to Kirst and most importantly, I leave the rest of my life in God's hands with the faith that whatever happens is what's best for me.

I, Shilpa Phadke, leave the Student Council to whoever has the guts to take it, a compass and a full tank of gas to Kara V., the good times in Physics with AF to Kim K., the tennis "paranoia" and HOLY Spandex to Christy M., my sense of direction to Mr. Banta, a lobster roll from Kennedy's to Greulich, the school committee to Little Sturges and Ch. 30 and the good old Enterprise Sun to Mr. Goldschmidt.

I, Lance Podlesney, leave to all the seniors the best of luck in the future, my speakers to Seth, my radio to Rachel, my bat to Justin, a hit for Brian, all of my hats to Mahoney, my thanks and appreciation to all the teachers that have helped me and all my appreciation to Ms. Bethke for everything you have done for me. Thanks a million!

I, Jamie Raeke, leave Kate Papalia, Mo Bonner, Bethany Quinton and Kristin Vallee the right to call me "Pook," the number 30 to BQ and the car to T.J. and Kristen.

I, Russell Roberto, leave my tardies to Tim, my table hockey championship to Jason, my ideas to Ben, my musical ability to Little Joe (Hatia), my jokes to my math class and cheetos to Mr. Kurth.

I, Janice Robichaud, leave a bag of mints to Mrs. O'Brien, "Feelings" to Kara, Chapters 22-25 of the Hitchhikers Guide to Erin, "Rebchuck" to Joel and Adam, "Stars" to Jim and all my love, care and concern to my cousin, Michelle.

I, Jess Savage, leave all the stuff in the world that is cool to Jen and Wendy, my number, my strength and my serve to Jen Demos, a map of Boston to Dave and all my best wishes to the best track team ever.

I, Robert Scheel, leave all of my C-stix to Stacey B., my S.O.S. to Dave C., my D-Pedal and Gatorade to Richie C., my American Express card to Colleen, my math grade to my brother and $10 to my bud, Joe.

I, Amy Schmitz, leave my brother and sister the yellow stretch limo to ride in the morning, my field hockey skills to Amy Clark, my Chemistry grade to Kate Bennett and the best of luck to Jeff and Lynny!

I, Drew Scott, leave the money I owe to Okie, and my tennis skills to Campanella, M.C. Carroll, George and Hemanth.

I, Jeff Sturges, leave my SPAM and lacrosse stick to Mr. Goldschmidt, my chemistry notebook to Michelle, my drumset and James Brown CD to Joel and Beamer, chicks to Chris Scott and the whole school to my brother.

I, Jennifer Susinski, leave my absences to Smendrick, my rides to Leon, my Sr. English to my sisters. Have fun with the fro.

I, Julie Tremmel, leave "Lady Luck" to Chris Christo, daily trips to the dumpster during the summer to Keir Anzelmo, "goat fur" to Jay Elwood, the hidden treasure in the washing machine to Amy Dezekian, a trip to Walden Pond to Chris Bowles and two very empty seats in the front row to "The Hov."

I, Danielle Unger, leave a Shopsisie's pickle, a big chunk of Feta cheese to Kelli, my dedication and section leader chair to Steph, a pair of pants to Amy Lane and free admission to the trucking school of her choice to Wendy.

I, Sara Williams, leave my credits to Kelly Souza, my car to Beth Henderson, my boyfriend problems to Shawn Masciarelli, my brother to Matt Buczek, my kitchen counter to Georgia Beyersdorfer and my heart to Kevin.

I, Kate Yurkus, leave my bigger B-ball uniform to Jamie Bennett, long Saturdays to Amy, blue material to Per, E Tailoring, maturity to my Latin class, use of the car to Chris, a modeling career to Tim and may the spirit of the KYP live at MHS forever!

We, Shilpa and Amari, leave the copyright and royalties of our "Progress is Degress" bumper sticker to Kurth, our love and show choir smiles to Joan Toohey, the countdown, donut days and eighth graders to Mr. Bill Taillon, all the weight we'll lose because we're not eating...we mean playing...tennis anymore to Carolyn Ross, "The Queen Bees" to Mr. K (sponsor kids who can spell to WIN next time), thanks for the best gym class memories of our lives (even though we were always late) to Mr. Riley, thanks for the recommendations to Mrs. Dolmanisth, thanks for the hours of extra help to Mr. Terry and thanks to Mrs. Giorgi for giving us the means of expressing ourselves as intelligent young women even though we were only freshmen plebes. Finally, we leave these and the other awesome faculty members at MHS to any future students who are able to appreciate what they have to offer.

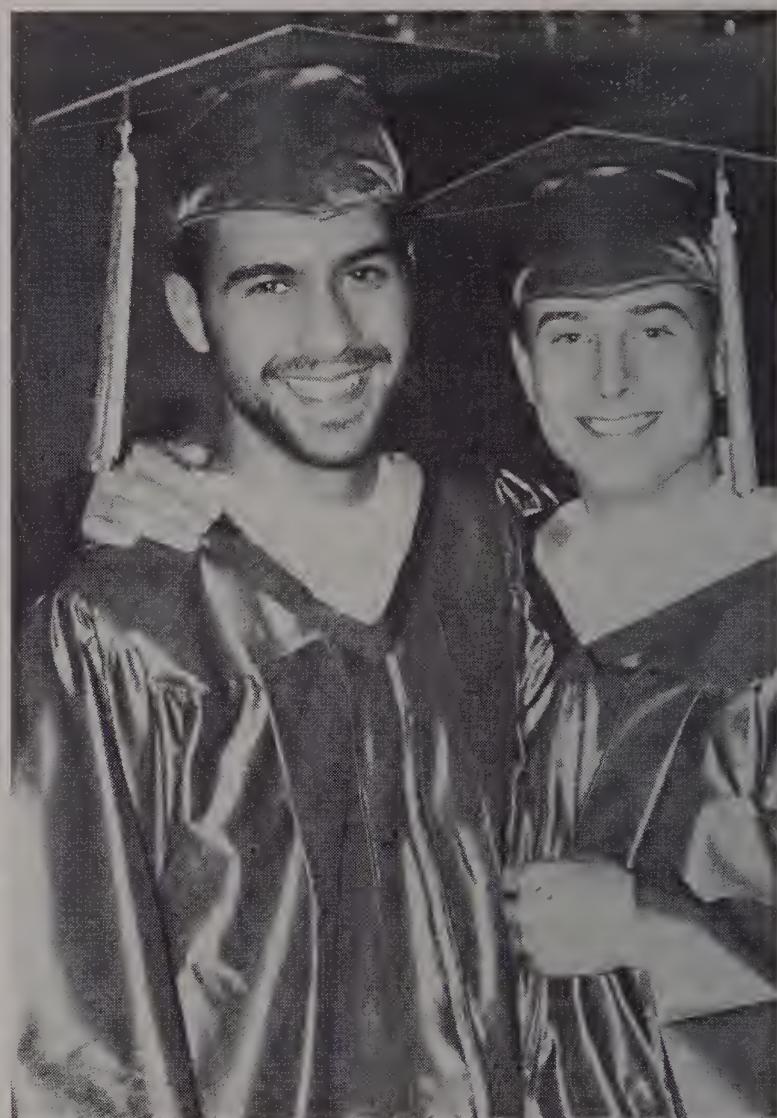

We, the 1995 yearbook staff, leave our dedication and perserverance to next year's staff. Don't forget to proof EVERYTHING and watch for typos.

We, the class of 1995, leave MHS with the end of an era.

Commencing the MHS chain...

Fly Like an Eagle. Senior chorus members give the traditional graduation song one final run through.

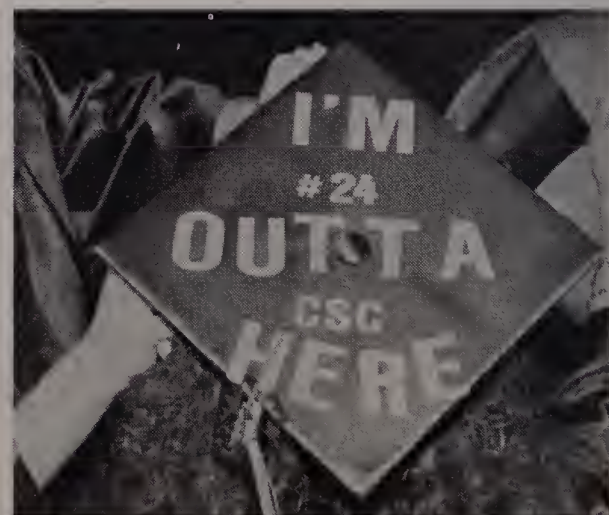

Friends 'til the end. Best buddies Dinis Avila and Corey Graham share a close moment.

All smiles. After years of perserverance, Sally Gardner graduates.

Housemother of the year! Joe Fasano, Lance Podlesney, Seth Margadonna and Rachel Ferrante give a final hug to their favorite 'gal.'

Where will we be? Shin-Yi Lai asks the question of where the class of 1995 will be in ten years in her speech at graduation. We all hope that if we have any neurological problems, she will be there to give us her medical assistance.

Helping hand. Through the last several years, the MHS administrators have played a huge role in our success.

LINKED TOGETHER

At last, it's all done!! The 1995 yearbook staff smiles with sighs of relief after setting up for the annual yearbook dinner.

Big boys don't cry. Although impending goodbyes could ruin the celebration, Adam Keigwin, Jason Sullivan, Ben Cutone and Mark Mischenko don't let it get them down.

Ready to hit the road. Longtime friends Colleen, Amy, Cory, Caitlin, Shilpa, Janice and Sarah take one last snapshot together as they plan to go many separate ways.

Modeling... the latest trends, Julie, Brian, Amy and Kate prepare to strut their stuff on the MHS field house runway.

Bright eyed and bushy tailed. Stephanie Bryan and Wendy Kline show no signs of weariness as the all-nighter comes to an end with a memorable slide show.

Another record? Senior Leslie Hartlen heaves the shot put into the air, showing great skill and athleticism.

On your mark, get set... Senior Bonnie McDonald is ready to go, thrusting herself out of the starting blocks for MHS.

And there off! Marlboro underclassmen come out of the blocks determined to win this dash for their school.

Make it a good one! Senior Andriy Lets hands the baton off to classmate, Harry Coffin. The hand off is a critical point in the relay because if it's good, you make a good time. If it is bad, the team risks losing time.

Go for launch. Senior Jessie Savage is about to hurl the javelin into the sky for a beautiful long distance throw.

Good eye. Senior Lance Podlesney watches the ball, about to come from the pitcher's hand, so he can make a good hit.

Right here, baby. Sophomore Gordon Halliday moves into the rolling baseball's path to grab it and throw it for an out.

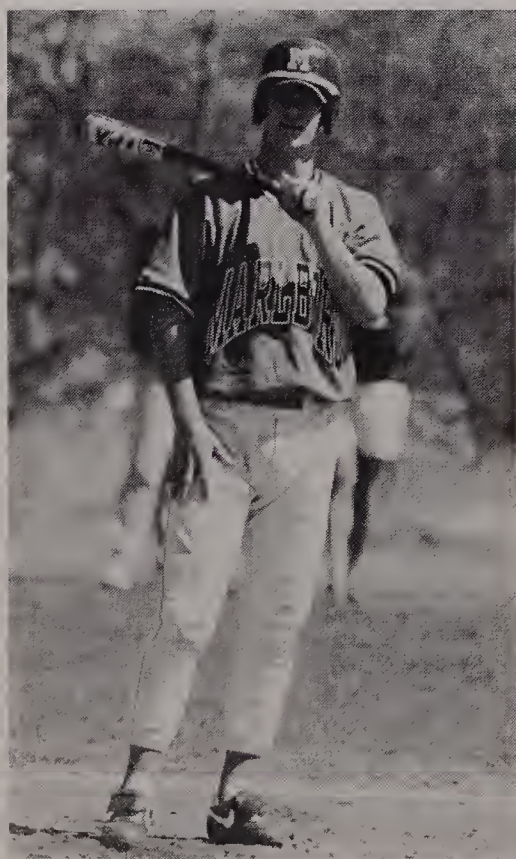

There it goes! Senior Seth Margadonna watches his hit soar into the air, hoping it won't be caught on the fly, while the team looks on from behind.

Alright guys... Senior J.J. Donohue discusses strategy with his teammates before the game resumes.

Huddle! The Varsity team puts their hands together with Coach Rigney for a quick but rallying cheer to get psyched for the game. The team had a discouraging start at the beginning of the season, but these guys pulled through for a decent record and a satisfying season.

Next at bat... Junior Justin Bilancieri steps toward the plate, wiping his hand before taking the hitter's stance.

Right into my mitt. Senior catcher Kathy Lombardo hopes to get the ball before the batter has a chance.

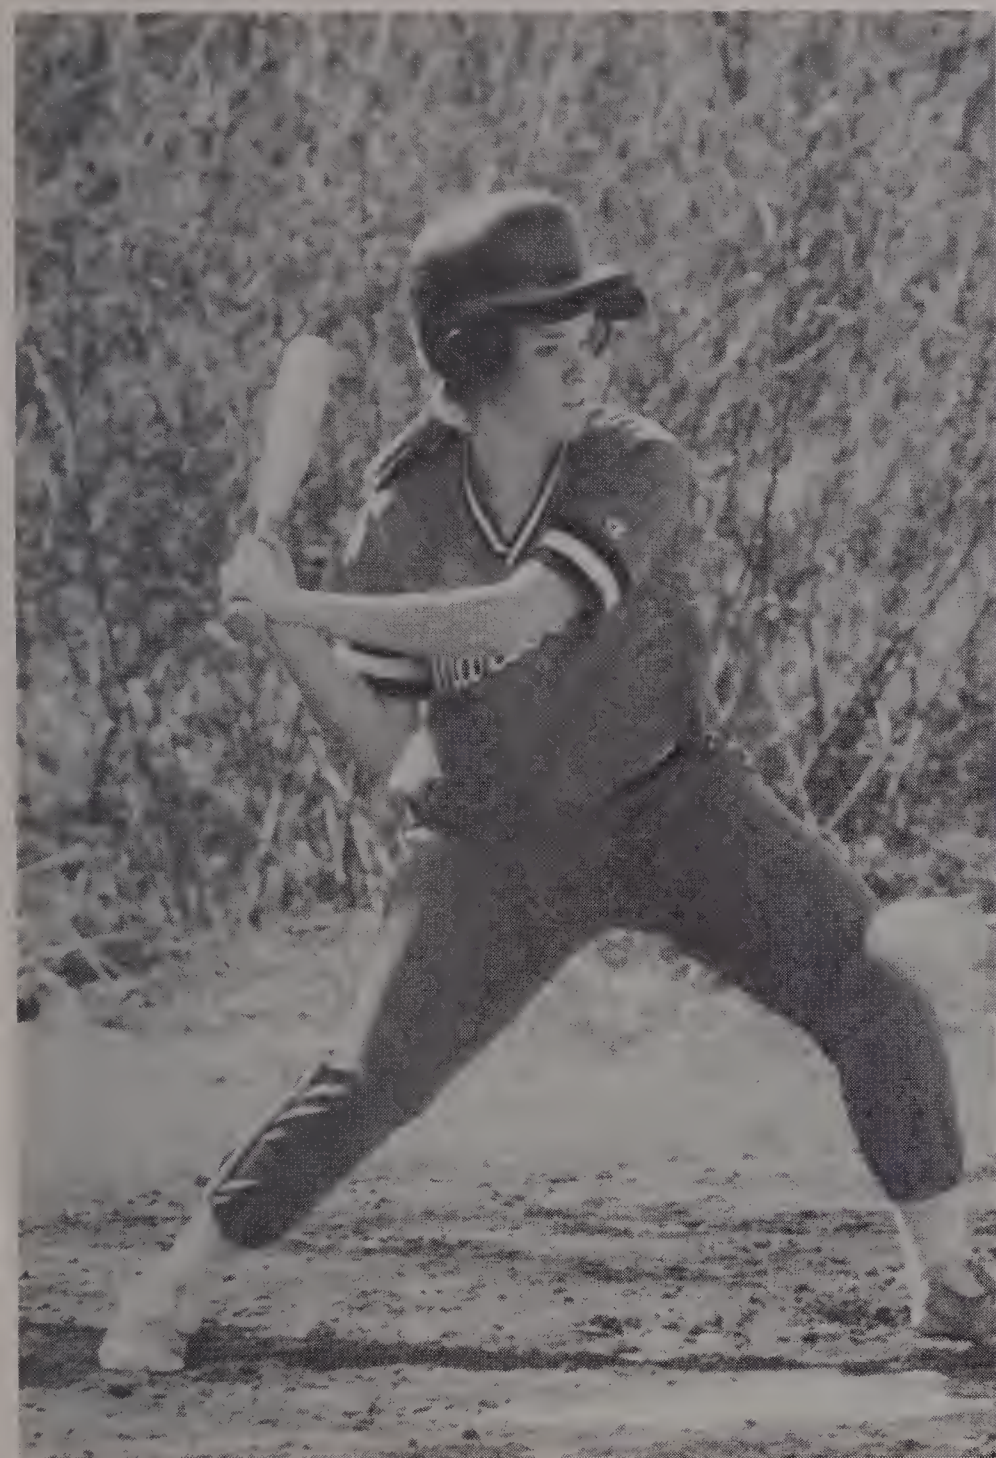

Ready for whatever comes. Senior Linda Hayes is as reliable at second as she is in any other sports position.

Bring me home. Sophomore Kristen Vallee looks around as she gets ready to run to second base at the next opportune moment.

No sissy throws here! Junior Shannon Smith throws the ball to base for a hopeful out.

Swing! Freshman Maureen Bonner eyes the softball as she prepares to hit it into the outfield.

The bench. This wooden plank is the domain of hurt or tired players, attentive managers and stressed coaches. Here we see all of the above as Seniors Jamie Raeke, Kaitlyn MacNeil, Sara Dalamangas and Coach Rogers.

Many thanks to all of the trainers for their contributions to MHS's athletic program.

Concentration. Senior Ben Cutone assesses the situation to determine how to best play this shot.

Where's it going? Senior Adam Keigwin follows the ball to see exactly where his swing takes it.

Four! With perfect form, Senior Ben Cutone drives the ball down the course fairway.

It's in there! Sophomore Kevin Bracken awaits the inevitable birdie of this beautiful putt.

Hook or slice?! Senior Adam Keigwin, with a powerful hit, sends the golf ball hurling through the air.

Gold Chains

Dressed to the nines. Aimee Gauthier and Janice Robichaud capture memories on film.

Geeks with attitudes. John, Ryan, Benny, Sully, BABA & J.J. always have a good time, whether they are with girls or potted plants.

Hassa's done it again! He comes to the prom with only one date, yet leaves with ten. What a stud! (Bzzzzzzzz, suddenly Hassa's alarm clock goes off, waking him from dreamland.)

Bust a move! Living it up at the prom are Brian Stupik and Mrs. Roache. Don't they look like they're having fun?!

Cuff Links...

Royalty at its best. Senior Prom Queen Amari Parker and King Brian Stupik take the floor and dance to 'Into the Mystic' - the senior prom song.

B-B-B-Benny & the plant. What more could you ask for in a prom date? She has great curves, looks pretty in pink and above all - she doesn't talk back!

And they're off! Adam Keigwin and Isis Dallas are ready to leave the reception but pose for one more photo.

Say cheese... again! Getting pictures taken about 100 times and not knowing which direction to look in is a classic dilemma during the pre-prom reception.

Did I rip it?! Kelli Mulligan tries to be extra careful not to rip the toilet paper, as partner Helena Guerra stands still during one of the late night all-nighter activities.

Jamming with a true cowboy! Christen Dutchka releases her enthusiasn for Garth Brooks!

LATE NIGHT BONDING...

What fun would it be without each other? Prom dates and cute couple Rob Cummings and Diane Gamache take time out for a quick hug.

Snapple break. Seniors Erin McCurley, Paul Mavilia, Dawn Kennison, Dave Magri and Aimee Gauthier take a rest from the activities for some drinks and a photo.

Time for a pick-me-up! Sara Williams gets her prom hair-do rejuvenated by the hairstylist at the all-nighter.

Get into the groove! Highlights of the night were the ongoing karaoke performances. Jen White, Jaimie "Jay Dog" Bell, Nicole "Blanchie" Blanchard and Kate Barry put Madonna to shame!

Come on in! Ben Cutone, Darren Conrad and Chris Barber stay awake at the all-nighter by going for a late-night dip. Benny, did your potted companion forget her suit?

Don't fall asleep. Peter Midura and Leslie Hartlen sneak in a quick breather between all-nighter activities.

Hey baby, what's your sign? Brenda Berry learned about her future plans from the astrologer.

Chain letters...

I, Alyson Arline, leave my big eyes and attitude to Kate, all the bushings to Amanda, many pictures to Isis, MHS to Shanette, my deepest thanks to Mr. K, and many memories to Erica, Shanette, Steph, Heather, Patti, Leslie, Christine and Lisa.

I, Dinis Avila, leave all of my love to Jen Collins. Thanks for being there. I will never forget you.

I, Chris Barber, leave all my good judgement to Amy Clark and an hour's worth of free day care to my LITTLE girlfriend, Julie.

I, Kate Barry, leave Sandra Angelo many rides to Western Mass. and to Mr. Courchine, my share in K.B. Toys.

I, Mark Bergstrom, leave nothing to anyone. I'm taking all my cp with me.

I, Brian Berry, leave all my unfinished homework to Mr. Duca and all my excuses to Mr. Courchine.

I, Keith Biddy, leave B.C. Hoops to Kevin Clancy, a dictionary to Beth Brady, peanut butter M&Ms to Kate Ahern, my name to Tim and Katie Biddy and some Irish blood to Mr. Banta.

I, Marissa Brown, leave all my tardies to Hank, the big yellow bus and nickname "Brownie" to Lor, sports memories to CR and PL, money for needed new uniforms to Mr. Long, shotgun in any van to KP, BQ, MB, KV, EC and SS and my sense of humor and personality to Mrs. Poirier.

I, Joe Bucciarelli, leave my mother's nagging to Jay, every piece of gum I ate on her to C. Cole and my excuses to Mr. K.

I, Debbie Bush, leave to Marlboro High School my daughter, Samantha Voice, to attend in thirteen years.

I, Nicole Buturlia, leave my tardies to Danielle Lott, the rest of my credits to Holly Rielly and my late trips into school to Cori Mauchan.

I, Erica Michele Cary, leave my Jamaicans to Jessica, G-sipe to Shanette, all our memories, good and bad, to the rest of the crew. I won't forget you guys and thanks, Mr. K.

I, Emily Chudzikiewicz, leave some lovely scented Swedish fish and all my breakfasts at Bickford's to Debbie Falconi, my Van Halen T-shirt to Ricki and Falconi, all my grades and absences to Craig Klindenst and my cow to Carlson!

I, Rick Cincotta, leave some rope and shaving cream to Mike, another shot to Phil, a date with Adrienne to Ed, clear speech to Jaimee, the power to have a clue to Janice and some donuts to Mr. Banta.

I, Harry Coffin, leave the bus to Dave Coffin and Chris Nordello, the wrestling team to Tim Gardner, Taco Bell to Jeff Coffin and the first state champ and this beautiful and enjoyable school to Dave. I, Richie Coffin, leave the school to my brother, Jeff, and all his friends, the cheese wagon to my brother, Jason, (until Jeff gets the van), T.K.'s H.A. to Kate G. and Dawn K., and I'll have to leave Phil Anzelmo and a box of tissues for my cousin, Dave.

I, Jen Collins, leave the rides in the Catalina to everyone who has had the privilege to ride in it, "Sunday's Best" to Brian Stupik, good times and memories with the "pretties" and all of my love and my heart to Dinis Avila.

I, Meredith Collins, leave my little red Subaru to Marissa, my PMS to Paul, my band trips to Shin-Yi, my reeds and solos to Barbara and every pair of blue socks I ever owned to Tom Lambert. I, Sean Corcoran, leave lipstick and flour to Mike Cincotta, the power to speak in full sentences to Tim Biddy, a muzzle to Kate Ahern, a voicebox to Jaimie Sharkey, coughdrops to Janice Lefevre and Ireland to Mr. Banta.

I, Ben Cutone, leave my oversized football helmet to Scott Giroux, my feeding tube to my brother Adam, an order of buffalo wings to Chris Christo, a sense of humor to lead our fearless football team into battle to T.J. Racke and a sense of direction for any country he may visit to Mr. Banta.

I, Emily Dalamangas, leave a ride to Bridgewater to Bryan, a "frog" to Kate and a spaghetti pizza to Mrs. Pasciarelli.

I, Sara Dalamangas, leave trips to Bridgewater to my buddy Bryan, Biology class memories to Kim, Kate and Jen, dog biscuits to Sammy and my bologna and Velveeta sandwiches to anyone who will eat them.

I, Heidi D. Dalton, leave all my maturity to Erin Place and all the rumors behind to MHS.

I, Monique DeBeaucourt, leave all my tardies to the Learning Center, the long road to Walgreen's and Natick men to Nicolette, my academic ability to my cousin, Katie, bye bye to Alicia and Betty Sue memories to Autumn.

I, Tina DeMarco, leave all my taxi services to my sister, Pam, lotion to April, 2050 to McBurney, hot pink nail polish to Jen, and to my sister, Andria. I leave all my credits because God knows she'll need all of them.

I, Eric DeSaulniers, leave all my left over credits to Matt and I leave to Liz my love forever.

I, Mark DiRienzo, leave a Spirit Pole and the contents of the pit to Tim Gardner, my car to Dave Coffin, the best of luck in whatever he does to my brother, Matt, and finally I leave pity on all who are left at MHS!

I, Christie Dolan, leave all my Italy and Greece stories to Mr. Banta, my indigestion from school lunch to Ben, rest and peace to Mrs. Bethke, my favorite dark colors to Jen and my hopes to an incoming freshman.

I, Michelle Domingos, leave to Amanda the llama and endless summer nights, and to my word processing buddies I leave the lectures on "the other side."

I, J.J. Donohue, leave to the future football teams of MHS the patience to deal with Coach Holland.

I, Rachel Donahue, leave five dollars to Paul Mavilia, the daily runs to Brian, endless Fruit Loops to Holly and memories that will not be forgotten to Kaitlyn Enright.

I, Carole Dutchka, pass #20 on to Isis Dallis, and I leave to the soccer team the ability to persevere through all hardships and to Tonya the Trainer I leave tape, ace bandages, hydroculators, saline solution and all the other stuff I always needed. Thanks for taking care of me! To Charlotte I leave muffins and a diet Sprite and to everyone else I leave the determination to live life to your fullest potential!

I, Christen Dutchka, leave #22 to Laura Lehane.

I, Debbie Falconi, leave all the pool games and dinners at Bickford's to Emily C., my Ken Schrader card to Bill C. and a bag of Swedish fish with a napkin inside for those unsuspected times when you need to pull over to the side of the road - you know who you are, E.C.

I, Alyssa Fay, leave my greatest weekends ever to the Rose Gang, my freakiness to Marissa, a car battery and gas to Jess, my attitude to Mrs. Bank and a shovel and Brownie Bites to Ms. Bean.

I, Rachel Ferrante, leave my greatest thanks and appreciation to Mr. K, Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Bethke, my pens to Ryan Jaques, my lunch box and my strength to put up with the 8th graders to Felicia Mayers, my baseball hats to Jeff Mahoney, my hairspray, a gift certificate to Marshall's and my advice to Seth Margadonna, and lastly, while I attend Burdett to further my education, I leave all my love to my boyfriend, Mike Murphy.

I, Daniela Freitas, leave my coffee to Claudia, my mornings to Isabella and my music...well...that I will keep forever.

I, Diane Gamache, leave the number 10 to Chris Gamache, a ride home to Jamie Bennett, the confidence to shoot to Amy Morrissey and the memories of the Rte. 9-9 to live forever! Many thanks to AC, LH, KH and CD!!

I, Paul Garcia, leave all my left over credits to my cousin, Rachel, all the salt and pepper in the world to Stacy, a lifetime supply of Cheez-its to Dithers and a full retirement plan with a bottle of dye to Ma.

I, Kate Gilmore, leave our last "End Line" to Kim R., our "talks" at the nurse to Becky L., the best of luck to Erin O., a bottle of "wash and curl" to Jackie C., a special thank-you to Dawn K. and Erin M. and all my love to Tim L.

I, Helena Guerra, leave my Spanish to Mrs. Pasciarelli, my accent to Beth and Danielle, my winter coat to the next exchange student, a box of ziploc mini snack bags to Kate, Emily, Kristen, Linda and Wendy and my pens to Joe, John and Corey.

I, Amy Hall, leave all our rides to Linda, the adventures, "Grease" and the other town to Kate A., our "secret" talks to Janice, a hubcap to Kristen, a bobby hat to Mr. Banta, a blind date, a spoon and a bathing suit to Colleen, what could have been to Benny, and the best of luck at college to all my friends.

I, Kristen Hartnett leave the #4 ball to Kate Ahern, first singles to Kara, the best of luck to the class of '95, NHS duties to Lisa and Mr. M. and a lifelong friendship with KYP and the gang.

I, Linda Hayes, leave my goalpost to Melissa, missions to Vallee and Kate, bee sessions with Isis to Kate, good luck to Mike and the memories to KYP and friends.

I, Beth Henderson, leave memories of times both good and bad and plans for more exciting adventures to come to ALL of my friends, nothing to Georgi and Sara - we'll always be together!, unending thank yous to Ms. Bethke and Mr. K, a happy face to the world and to Tony, I leave my heart.

I, Ryan Jaques, leave my car keys to Steve Murtoff, my knee brace to Shaun O'Reilly, boneless buffalo wings to Tom Lambert, a cigar to Kristin Vallee, my Eazy-E CD to Billy Vallee and my puff pants to Keigwin.

I, Laura Jaworek, leave my term paper to Mr. Goldschmidt, SADD to Heather H., Jen B. and Alicia B., all my thanks to Mr. Beradino and Ms. Bethke for all that you have done, wishes for the best of everything to my classmates and good luck to the class of 1996.

I, Jaclyn Kavaleski, leave to Kate Ahern "a box of hot tamalies," my soccer goal and a piece of my heart to my sis, Melis and one last lunch date and the best of luck to Elaine and Stacey.

I, Adam J. Keigwin, leave the puff pants to Golden, my hometown fever to T.L. and finally, my heart to Isis.

I, Christine Kelley, leave my ability to spell her name to Mandy Tonelli, my ability to deal with Mrs. Toohey to Amanda Lombardi, all the smiles and frowns that we shared to Mrs. Toohey, all our shared memories to all my friends, my presidency to J.V. and my beloved name, Tigger, to M.T.

I, Jill Keyes, leave my Spanish skills to Talia Luongo and Mrs. Toohey and chorus to Heather Hicks.

I, Wendy Kline, leave my car to Mathew, a ticket to Florida to Mrs. Pascarelli, my skirt to Mrs. Greulich, a student for Goldshmidt to make fun of and I leave behing my spirit of the KYP! May the memories of the KYP remain at MHS forever!

I, Lisa LaBranche, leave my Van Halen ticket stub to Dave Newbould, the drive up window and secrets in the breakroom to Melissa Cummings and my ticket to the cafeteria and my Beastie Boys T-shirt to Erin Place.

I, Bill Lahey, leave my extra credits to Dave and Cliff, a hat and a pair of clippers to Jeff, a pop-tart to Christy C., a Boston Cream donut to Mr. Banta and thanks to everyone who helped me.

I, Shin-Yi Lai, leave my speedo to Caitlin Harris and Kristy Veith, my tennis raquet to Jen Lai, black shoes, clogs, ugly red things and guy problems to Kim Keough, my tennis raquet, flute and shoes to Lindsey Lucas, Marlboro Hospital to Reena and Dana, lots of Chinese food to J.J. and Mike, and Merredith gets dim sum.

I, John LeBreton, leave a bagel from "Hooters" to Mrs. Ledoux and Mrs. Ludgate, an autograph from Dan Quayle - maybe he will change - to Mr. McCaffrey and the legacies of Boggs, Angus and Reagan to Jeremiah, Drew, Pat and Greg.

I, Jack LeSage, leave my car to Mr. Hubbard, my lunch and hat to Mr. Banta, my math book to the trash, my fishing rod and a power worm to Justin and my job to Craig.

I, Kathy Lombardo, leave a comfortable seat on the bench to Bethany, money for softball uniforms to M.L., a big mud puddle to Emily Carbone, Mr. Brissette's secretarial work to Jen Wahl and the big orange fluffy chair to whoever gets to it first.

I, Tim Lyons, being of somewhat sound mind and body, leave my advice to Erin (and my wardrobe), my social life (what's left of it) to Jen J., my Bud hat to Jen M., my odd time to Lizard, my hallway look-aways to Kim, my image to Chris S., my mental notes to Dave, my jams to Joey St. Julien and Beamer and to Kara I leave anything else she doesn't already have.

I, Kaitlin MacNeil, leave all my homework to Andy as well as all my tardies, my test and impossible quizzes to all underclassmen, the 8 freedom our school once had, but no more, I leave to the memory of all incoming students.

I, Jeff Mahoney, leave Seb a case of Tostitos, "crunch and munch" to Joel and Adam, another trip with someone to Mark B. and BBQ seeds to Lance.

I, Dave Maier, leave my shave gel and extension cords to Mike Cincotta, my rope and chair to Justin Bilancieri and all the Grateful Dead tee shirts to Mike McGrath.

I, Stephanie Mandozzi, leave my stickers to Seth Margadonna, my maternity clothes to Jessica Clark, my partying life to Megan Christmas, my high school years and support to my sister, Lisa, all my love and my heart to my boyfriend and best friend, Vinicius Aquiar and my car rides and memories I will never forget to "The Crew."

I, Erin McCurley, leave the long bus ride to and from school to Ray.

I, Bonnie McDonald, leave my lucky black mittens and soccer memories to Kristin Boches, the District Championship to the Girls' Soccer team, a Grateful Dead ticket to Mr. Freeman and the best times of my life to Penny.

I, Lisa McNally, leave a glass of orange juice to Chris Christo, my half of the brain to the group (split it equally among yourselves) and my grades and my skip days to my sister, Sara. You'll get it for those.

I, Charlene Mei, leave many secrets and memories of St. Maarten to Sandra Angelo, best times in Falmouth and St. Maarten to Kaitlyn Enright and two more great years of high school with your wonderful classmates to Jennifer Bowen.

I, Kelli Mulligan, leave all my English and Gym classes to some poor soul, rancid tasting pickles to Beth, produce scales to Danielle, a prom date with the cute guy from the banquet to Helena and all my thanks to those who helped me through Senior year!

I, Cory Mulvey, leave to my "friend" Karen Z. another year with Steve, to April Bernal a cheer-free year, a movie ticket that's good forever to Aimee, ten rings from Hampton to Alicia, an umbrella for when you're running to my truck in the rain to my cousin, Jenny, my blue pick-up to drive to Kcene with, a phone line to herself and four more years to Sara.

I, Liz O'Leary, leave a grain of sand from the million dollar beach to Nicole Kattany and all the great memories with the one I love most, Eric DeSaulniers.

I, Jessie Papalia, leave all my absences to Kate, the hus to Karen, Kate and Kate and good luck to the volleyball team.

I, Amari B. Parker, leave seriously way too much, including: my handwriting to Madame, my princess hair to Steve M., the power of music to Justin B., a kiss for Districts next year to Jimmy V., Missy from North Middlesex to Christy M., good luck with his crazy schedule and with my sis to Cohbinator, the Rebchuck legacy to Joey and Beamer, a breakfast with her brother and a freshmen girls' soccer picture to Laura L., the name "Rudy" to anyone who can identify with it, the stopsign infront of the Framingham Registry to all prospective drivers, a hard act to follow to the NHS officers, the massiveness of U2 to anyone who will truly appreciate it, boobooms, courage, happiness and people who have to be dragged into deep waters to Kirst and most importantly, I leave the rest of my life in God's hands with the faith that whatever happens is what's best for me.

I, Shilpa Phadke, leave the Student Council to whoever has the guts to take it, a compass and a full tank of gas to Kara V., the good times in Physics with AF to Kim K., the tennis "paranoia" and HOLY Spandex to Christy M., my sense of direction to Mr. Banta, a lobster roll from Kennedy's to Greulich, the school committee to Little Sturges and Ch. 30 and the good old Enterprise Sun to Mr. Goldschmidt.

I, Lance Podlesney, leave to all the seniors the best of luck in the future, my speakers to Seth, my radio to Rachel, my bat to Justin, a hit for Brian, all of my hats to Mahoney, my thanks and appreciation to all the teachers that have helped me and all my appreciation to Ms. Bethke for everything you have done for me. Thanks a million!

I, Jamie Raeke, leave Kate Papalia, Mo Bonner, Bethany Quinton and Kristin Vallee the right to call me "Pook," the number 30 to BQ and the car to T.J. and Kristen.

I, Russell Roberto, leave my tardies to Tim, my table hockey championship to Jason, my ideas to Ben, my musical ability to Little Joe (Hatia), my jokes to my math class and cheetos to Mr. Kurth.

I, Janice Robichaud, leave a bag of mints to Mrs. O'Brien, "Feelings" to Kara, Chapters 22-25 of the Hitchhikers Guide to Erin, "Rebchuck" to Joel and Adam, "Stars" to Jim and all my love, care and concern to my cousin, Michelle.

I, Jess Savage, leave all the stuff in the world that is cool to Jen and Wendy, my number, my strength and my serve to Jen Demos, a map of Boston to Dave and all my best wishes to the best track team ever.

I, Robert Scheel, leave all of my C-stix to Stacey B., my S.O.S. to Dave C., my D-Pedal and Gatorade to Richie C., my American Express card to Colleen, my math grade to my brother and $10 to my hud, Joe.

I, Amy Schmitz, leave my brother and sister the yellow stretch limo to ride in the morning, my field hockey skills to Amy Clark, my Chemistry grade to Kate Bennett and the best of luck to Jeff and Lynny!

I, Drew Scott, leave the money I owe to Okie, and my tennis skills to Campanella, M.C. Carroll, George and Hemanth.

I, Jeff Sturges, leave my SPAM and lacrosse stick to Mr. Goldschmidt, my chemistry notebook to Michelle, my drumset and James Brown CD to Joel and Beamer, chicks to Chris Scott and the whole school to my brother.

I, Jennifer Susinski, leave my absences to Smendrick, my rides to Leon, my Sr. English to my sisters. Have fun with the fro.

I, Julie Tremmel, leave "Lady Luck" to Chris Christo, daily trips to the dumpster during the summer to Keir Anzelmo, "goat fur" to Jay Elwood, the hidden treasure in the washing machine to Amy Dezekian, a trip to Walden Pond to Chris Bowles and two very empty seats in the front row to "The Hov."

I, Danielle Unger, leave a Shopsie's pickle, a hig chunk of Feta cheese to Kelli, my dedication and section leader chair to Steph, a pair of pants to Amy Lane and free admission to the trucking school of her choice to Wendy.

I, Sara Williams, leave my credits to Kelly Souza, my car to Beth Henderson, my boyfriend problems to Shawn Masciarelli, my brotherto Matt Buczek, my kitchen counter to Georgia Beyersdorfer and my heart to Kevin.

I, Kate Yurkus, leave my bigger B-ball uniform to Jamie Bennett, long Saturdays to Amy, blue material to Per. E Tailoring, maturity to my Latin class, use of the car to Chris, a modeling career to Tim and may the spirit of the KYP live at MHS forever!

We, Shilpa and Amari, leave the copyright and royalties of our "Progress is Degress" bumper sticker to Kurth, our love and show choir smiles to Joan Toohey, the countdown, donut days and eighth graders to Mr. Bill Taillon, all the weight we'll lose because we're not eating...we mean playing...tennis anymore to Carolyn Ross, "The Queen Bees" to Mr. K (sponsor kids who can spell to WIN next time), thanks for the hest gym class memories of our lives (even though we were always late) to Mr. Riley, thanks for the recomenendations to Mrs. Dolmanisth, thanks for the hours of extra help to Mr. Terry and thanks to Mrs. Giorgi for giving us the means of expressing ourselves as intelligent young women even though we were only freshmen plebes. Finally, we leave these and the other awesome faculty members at MHS to any future students who are able to appreciate what they have to offer.

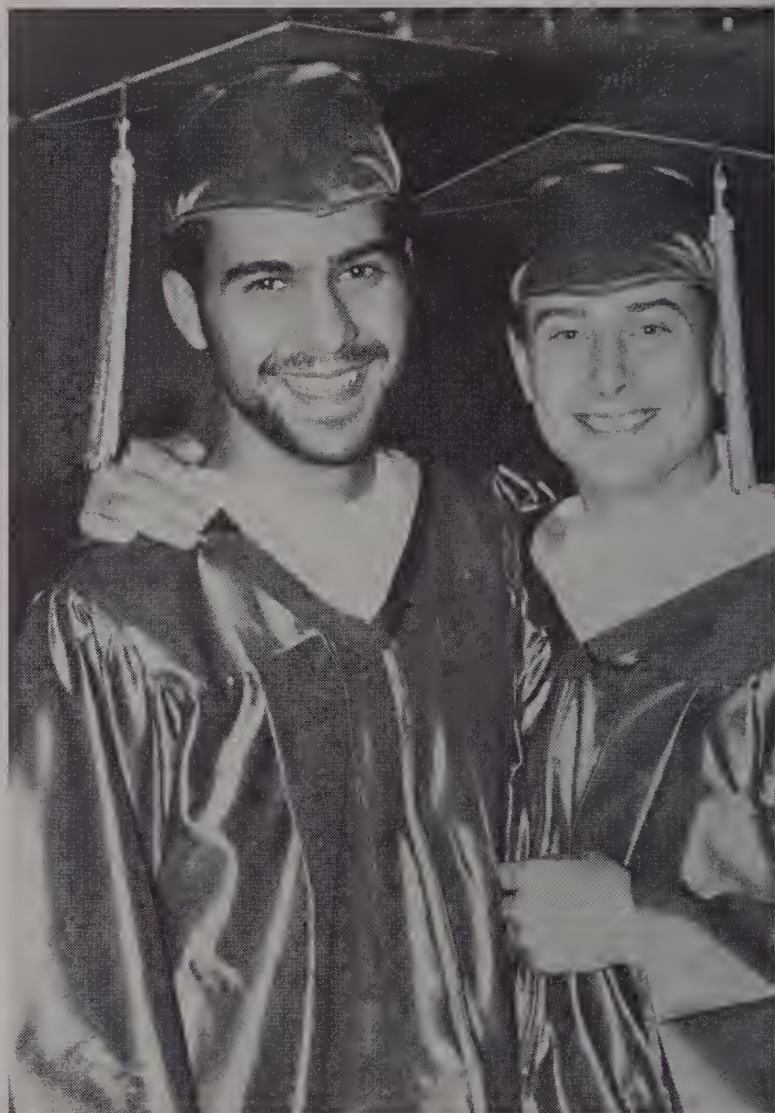

We, the 1995 yearbook staff, leave our dedication and perserverance to next year's staff. Don't forget to proof EVERYTHING and watch for typos.

We, the class of 1995, leave MHS with the end of an era.

Commencing the MIHS chain...

Fly Like an Eagle. Senior chorus members give the traditional graduation song one final run through.

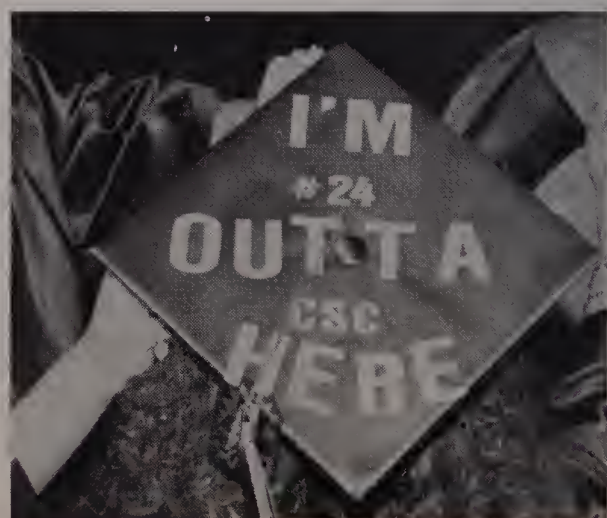

Friends 'til the end. Best buddies Dinis Avila and Corey Graham share a close moment.

All smiles. After years of perserverance, Sally-Jo Gardner graduates.

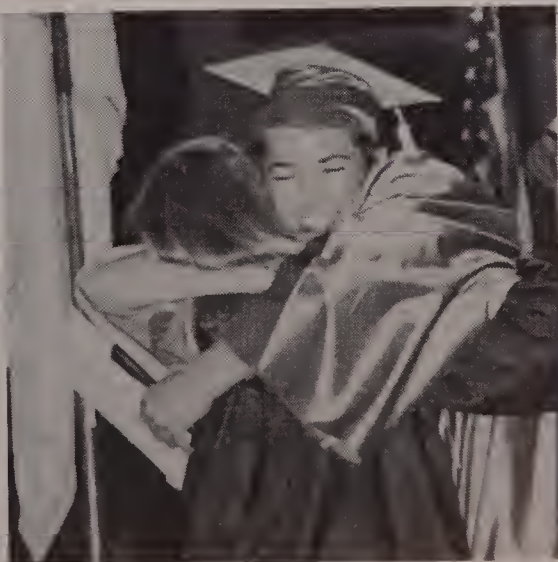

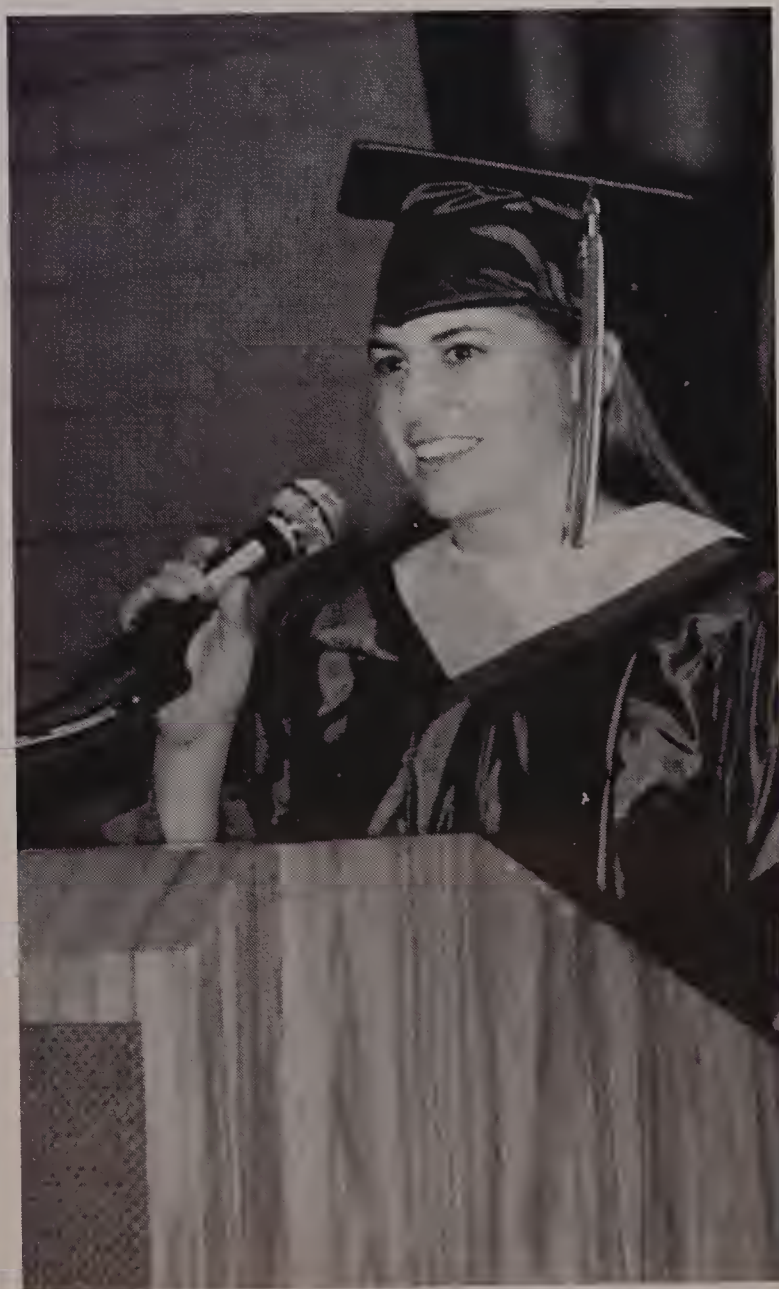

Housemother of the year! Joe Fasano, Lance Podlesney, Seth Margadonna and Rachel Ferrante give a final hug to their favorite 'gal.'

Where will we be? Shin-Yi Lai asks the question of where the class of 1995 will be in ten years in her speech at graduation. We all hope that if we have any neurological problems, she will be there to give us her medical assistance.

Helping hand. Through the last several years, the MHS administrators have played a huge role in our success.

LINKED TOGETHER

At last, it's all done!! The 1995 yearbook staff smiles with sighs of relief after setting up for the annual yearbook dinner.

Big boys don't cry. Although impending goodbyes could ruin the celebration, Adam Keigwin, Jason Sullivan, Ben Cutone and Mark Mischenko don't let it get them down.

Ready to hit the road. Longtime friends Colleen, Amy, Cory, Caitlin, Shilpa, Janice and Sarah take one last snapshot together as they plan to go many separate ways.

Modeling... the latest trends, Julie, Brian, Amy and Kate prepare to strut their stuff on the MHS field house runway.

Bright eyed and bushy tailed. Stephanie Bryan and Wendy Kline show no signs of weariness as the all-nighter comes to an end with a memorable slide show.
